THE ASSOCIATED PRESS reports "resources for feeding the thousands of veterans at Washington are about exhausted," and

"Police Superintendent Glassford prepared a notice to the bonus seekers that the authorities tomorrow will gladly furnish transportation out of the city for those ready to return home."

In other words:

"Here is your hat; what is your hurry?"

The government's attitude was different when men were needed to fight the country's battles.

THESE MEN that went to Washington to ask for justice are requested to go about their business, because the fearful drain on national resources that feeding them would involve could not be endured.

The government has been spending six cents a day to feed them; that would be $300 a day for 5,000 men. It makes you laugh to remember what the government spent to feed Belgian children, Turkish children, Armenian children, and the deserving of Mesopotamia.

WHAT, BY the way, are the Red Cross and the Salvation Army doing, except collect money, in these interesting circumstances? These men, now out of work and penniless, are the same that paid first class prices for cigarets at benevolent canteens in France, and for everything they got.

IT SEEMS strange to read in an Associated Press dispatch that near Washington:

"Military posts have been restricted. Officers and men understand that they are to stand ready for any emergency duty that they may be called upon to perform."

This, of course, refers to the presence of veterans in Washington.

It was said after the Civil War that it would have been cheaper if the government had bought the slaves and freed them, instead of fighting about them.

It certainly would be cheaper, also more decent, to feed the former soldiers demanding justice than to use today's standing army to suppress them.

Near a powder magazine one should not play with matches.

CYRUS H. K. CURTIS, whose genius never fails him, prints a picture of the national water-wagon with the near hind wheel falling off, labelled "Rockefeller."

Some one has said "to be poor is h—." The withdrawal of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., from financial support of the Anti-Saloon League, is disturbing.

To have the richest friend of prohibition declare the amendment a failure, just after the failure of a bank containing Anti-Saloon League funds, is almost enough to make you think Providence itself is no longer "dry" and has gone back to the days when water was changed to wine for the wedding feast.

However, it takes thirty-six states to take anything out of the constitution, and the wets should not rejoice prematurely.

IT IS BELIEVED by some wets usually well informed that another very conspicuous American, also absolutely dry hitherto, as well as a total abstainer, will in a day or two confirm Mr. Rockefeller's opinion that prohibition has failed.

MOST DISTRESSING to prohibitionists who still believe prohibition a success is news from Jacksonville, Fla., that Mark Wilcox, West Palm Beach lawyer in favor of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment, will probably go to Congress in place of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, who is dry like her father, the late William J. Bryan.

WHEN YOU read about the sales tax, used successfully in Canada and elsewhere, and find in this country newspapers opposing it, ask yourself what causes the opposition.

Newspapers would have to pay tax on heavy purchases of white paper and black ink. For that reason some, under one virtuous pretext or another, are opposed to the tax.

On the basis of the Canadian sales tax of four per cent, W. R. Hearst would be taxed one million dollars a year as an additional charge for the white paper, of which he uses more than any other publisher in the world.

A FRIEND sends to this column some comments on the tax that may interest you.

The suggestion that Russia might refuse to recognize the United States because we are TOO Bolshevist will appeal to you.

"A tariff tax is a sales tax, but a sales tax imposed on imported articles.

"Our consumers pay a fifty per cent or sixty per cent tariff sales tax without ever knowing it.

"Why should we hesitate at a four or five per cent manufacturers' sale tax? It would be absolutely unnoticeable and it would bring in billions to the government.

"In fact, with a four or five per cent sales tax we could cut down the income tax, which is an economically destructive and wholly un-American tax, being purely class taxation, and consequently a stimulus to the very Bolshevism which we consider so fundamentally opposed to our American democracy.

"The latest excesses of this communistic confiscatory income tax are so great that it is no longer a question of whether the United States could be willing to recognize

Fitzgerald Hints End of Trolleys to Washington, Charleroi; Fights Bus Line

Abandonment of the Washington and Charleroi lines of the Pittsburgh Railways Company on account of decreasing revenue, due to the coal situation, is an early possibility, Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president and general manager of the company, testified before Examiner W. E. Best, of the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Fitzgerald was called by the Railways Company, which is protesting against the granting of a certificate to the Oriole Motor Coach Company for further extension of the latter's bus service into Mt. Lebanon and also into Thornburg, Crafton and Ingram. He admitted the Oriole company is not a serious competitor to the railways company, except in certain sections. He objected to bus competition on the broad ground, he testified, that to grant such certificates would establish a precedent and seriously affect the railway lines.

HIGH SPEED TROLLEYS

He also testified that the company expects to install high speed lines operating through the West End to Crafton about next September, and says that where they have been tried, they have proven profitable. This was true of the South Hills lines, where indicated earnings have increased 15 to 20 per cent and on the Fifth avenue lines, about 15 per cent.

Fitzgerald testified that street cars should not have bus competition within a half mile of the railway. He said his company will extend rail service or put in feeder buses in any section where the traffic would justify it. He says that the present application of the Oriole company would push that concern into non-productive territory.

CROSS-EXAMINED

Asked by Attorney Thomas D. Murray, representing the Oriole line, which charges a 15-cent disc fare, if he did not testify that the Brentwood Motor Coach line would not be profitable, Fitzgerald answered in the affirmative.

The opponents of the Oriole application again went into the financial structure of the company. William Supan, president, reiterated that his company would not take $500,000 for the property, and also admitted having given an option on it. Stockholders opposed selling it, wanting $200 to $150 a share. He did not testify who wanted the option. The Railways Company also submitted statements showing the Railways Company is being operated at a loss.

County Employes 'Assessed' By Chiefs, Investigator Indicates in Inquiry

BULLETIN.

A former timekeeper in the County Road Department in the Carnegie district today charged William Kauffield, a county clerk, collected the excess pay from laborers in that district.

The timekeeper gave three specific instances in which he said laborers were paid $96 instead of $56. He said Kauffield notified the men of the over pay and ordered them to bring the money to him so that he could pay bills for extra material used on the job. The witness said:

"Jerry Kerr had $56 coming according to my book, but he was paid $96. The same also occurred in the pay of Arthur Reese and Joseph Vogel."

Testimony which investigators say will show that county employes paid a percentage of their wages to officials to hold their jobs in the various county departments, was to be presented today in the county audit probe, now under way by the County Commissioners. Special Investigator Leo Riordan announced that such testimony would be given this afternoon and tomorrow.

Today one witness testified he got a road job after promising to do "missionary work" for Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong prior to the September (1931) primary.

Today's witness told of being called in by Chief Clerk William H. Ziefel and told to do some missionary work in Penn and Plum townships. He was assigned to the Bessemer district.

The witness said that George Hughes was foreman, Charles Woods, timekeeper, and a man named Burns, truck driver, on the job. He said Burns and Woods almost daily would take the auto of "Pansy" Flowers, an employe, drive away and return late in the day apparently from a lark. He said they kept Flowers in gasoline, taken from a county supply, and when none was on hand Burns would take the truck and go for a new supply. Concerning diverting county material to private use he said an eight-foot fill was made at the Riverview barbecue, near

An Appeal for The Little Towns

By ELSIE ROBINSON.

TO Herbert Hoover, President of these United States, and to the Senators and Representatives now convened in Congress—

GENTLEMEN:

I come before you today to plead for the little towns!

Perhaps those little towns may seem far away as you walk through your marble corridors, as you sit at your banquets, as you juggle with the destinies of foreign nations and speak familiarly in terms of billions. Yes, perhaps you have forgotten the little towns but once you knew them very well.

Do you not remember—does it not all come back to you between the babel of words and the clinking of gold and the secret whispering of your own ambition—

The small shabby houses, set deep in tangled gardens, with the smell of gingerbread and pickling peaches drifting from the kitchen window to your hungry young nose?

The wide, sunny street with the sagging boardwalk.... The rickety stores with the fly speckled displays in the windows, and the smiling, shirt-sleeved storekeeper lounging in the doorway—

The livery stable, with its yawning darkness.... The sound and smell of stamping horses.... The row of loafing yarning men, whittling, chewing, spitting—

And you, a bare-footed youngster in faded overalls, loitering along with your dog at your heels....

ARE YOU BEGINNING TO REMEMBER, GENTLEMEN?

IS IT COMING BACK TO YOU, ACROSS THE YEARS, ACROSS THE MEMORIES, PROUD OR SAD, WHICH HAVE CLOUDED YOUR BRAIN AND YOUR HEART WITH THEIR DUST?

The sharp, musty smell of waking earth in spring.... Fat furrows of black soil falling back before the plunging plow.... Squabble of sparrows, following the scattered grain—

The thickening buds of the pussy willows down by the creek.... The patters and roar of the spring rain on the tin roof above your bed—

The sudden, folding coolness of the old swimming hole about your thin, sticky-warm young body—

The hot, green caverns of the corn field where you hid, playing Indian—

The sting of burning leaves in the fall—blue smoke drifting across a golden sky—

The lazy jangle of cow bells, sagging home, up the darkening lane—

HAVE YOU REALLY FORGOTTEN THEM, GENTLEMEN—THOSE LITTLE TOWNS WHICH GAVE YOU BIRTH? IS IT NOT LIVING IN YOU AGAIN—THE MEMORY OF IT ALL?

The memory of the laughter and love.... Those first young dreams.... Those first bitter confusions and failures.... And the sure dear comfort of your mother's arms—

Is not that memory around you again as her arms were around you?

GENTLEMEN, I PLEAD THAT YOU REMEMBER!

I PLEAD THAT YOU REMEMBER THOSE LITTLE TOWNS!

They gave you life in those almost forgotten days. They are giving you life today. You are here in this White House, you are here in this Congress, because those little towns sent you here.... Be-

PRIEST FLIES TO CAPITAL TO AID

'Stay Until You Get What You Came For,' Leader Advises, Scoring Refusal

By DAVE JONES
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Greeted by the full-throated cheers of 6,000 ex-service men, Father James R. Cox, of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church in Pittsburgh, who led Western Pennsylvania's "hunger marchers" to the national capital last winter, returned to Washington today—this time to plead the cause of the thousands of former soldiers and sailors gathered here to demand immediate payment of the bonus.

Addressing the huge crowd of veterans at Camp Camden, where they have established headquarters, Father Cox told them:

"I don't want you to leave Washington until you get what you came after."

DEMAND CHEERED

The tremendous cheer which followed this—many of the audience had expected the priest to urge them to return home Monday after scheduled Congressional action on the bonus takes place—was dwarfed by that which came a few minutes later as Father Cox read a resolution which he said he would endeavor to take before the House and Senate later in the day.

The resolution called upon Congress to make immediate payment of the bonus.

The veterans voted their approval of the resolution in a roar that could be heard almost to the government buildings across the river. One of their leaders said afterward:

"That same vote makes Father Cox the mouthpiece of the bonus marchers."

SOLEMN IN PRAYER

As the cheering died away, some veteran called:

"A prayer, Father."

The crowd stood bare-headed in the blazing heat of the sun as the priest prayed fervently that their mission would not be in vain.

Leaving the camp to place a wreath on the grave of the Unknown Soldier, Father Cox was stopped by leaders of the veterans and made a member of their leg-

Mott, Y. M. C. A. Chief, For Dry Resubmission

G. O. P. Counting on Hoover to Back Resubmission

Developments today in the issue of anti-prohibition sentiment were these:

Republican leaders definitely counted President Hoover in favor of prohibition resubmission despite a denial at the White House that Mr. Hoover had approved a specific platform plank to that effect.

Dr. John R. Mott, president of the World's Alliance of the Y. M. C. A., in London, said he was in favor of resubmission on certain conditions but denied he was in favor of repeal.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP.)—Republican leaders at the Capitol today definitely counted President Hoover in favor of the principle of prohibition resubmission as convention plans moved ahead.

It was re-emphasized at the White House, however, that Mr. Hoover has not approved a specific prohibition plank for the platform.

Congressional chieftains did not hesitate to affirm their belief that the head of the party had indicated acceptance of the resubmission principle.

READY FOR CONTEST

Republicans on Capital Hill who last Sunday decided in favor of the resubmission plank are on notice to be ready to leave Congress, if necessary, for the platform contest. A drive in the convention for a repeal plank is feared by the party command.

To all appearances the prohibitionists in Congress are marking time to await the convention's decision.

Word from Indiana today of the resubmission plank in the

HOTEL FIRE LAID TO ARSON

CLEVELAND, O., June 9.—(AP.)—The Ellington Apartments fire was of incendiary origin, Chief State Fire Marshal Val Haffner said today.

His flat pronouncement was made after a 24-hour investigation of the blackened ruins from which 11 bodies have already been taken and in which it is believed at least three more lie buried.

Haffner said he had not yet gathered sufficient evidence to warrant any arrests, but intimated only a few additional bits of evidence were needed. It was brought out that the odor of gasoline was first noticed Monday morning, about 18 hours before the explosion, shortly after midnight Tuesday.

There was an inclination among investigators to discredit the theory of Safety Director Frank Merrick that the blast and fire resulted from amateur attempts to blow the safe of the Cleveland Savings and Loan Company, on the street level, although apparent evidence was discovered that bolts had been removed from the plate covering door gears of the vault.

Congressman's Wife Arrested for Crash

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP.)—Mrs. Bertha Huddleston, wife of Representative Huddleston, of Alabama, was released last night under $500 bail after her arrest earlier in the evening on charges of driving while intoxicated.

The arrest followed an accident in which the car police said Mrs. Huddleston was driving with Mark M. Penn, of Washington, crashed into a parked automobile owned by Mrs. J. K. Moore, of Kenilworth, Md. Penn was held on a charge of intoxication.

Mrs. Hoover in N.Y. For Children's Fete

NEW YORK, June 9.—(INS.)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President, arrived here by train from Washington this morning to review the 103d annual parade of the Brooklyn Sunday School Union, in which 110,000 children were expected to participate.

Home of Composer Mascagni Looted

LEGHORN, Italy, June 9.—(AP.)—Pietro Mascagni, composer of Cavalleria Rusticana and other operas, learned today that during the night burglars had entered his villa, a treasure house of medals and other valuable gifts, but apparently were frightened away before they had gathered much loot.

Belgian Royal Pair Visits King George

LONDON, June 9.—(INS.)—King Albert and Queen Elizabeth, of Belgium, today began a three-day visit with King George and Queen Mary. The meeting of the monarchs was said to be not unconnected with trade difficulties between their respective countries as a result of the new high British tariffs.

VOLPE, 2 AIDES GO TO JAIL

Louis Volpe, former political leader of Wilmerding, and two of his reputed henchmen were sentenced to jail terms by Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court today, following their conviction on charges of violating the prohibition law.

Volpe was sentenced to five months, a $200 fine and one-third the costs of prosecution; Alfredo Corloto, two months and one-third the costs; William Wallace, two months and one-third the costs.

The three were found guilty May 17 of selling liquor in Wilmerding in July and August last year. Before imposing sentence, Judge Gibson denied their motion for a new trial. No appeal was taken and they went to jail.

Miss Tashman Hurt In Taxicab Crash

NEW YORK, June 9.—(INS.)—Lilyan Tashman, the movie actress, was recovering today from injuries received when a taxicab in which she was riding crashed into another car in Central Park. She suffered a bruised lip, a sprained finger and lacerations on her shoulder.

She was on her way to her home to receive a phone call from her husband, Edmund Lowe, from Hollywood.

French Woman Air Ace Dies in Algeria

BISKRA, Algeria, June 9.—(AP.)—Lena Bernstein, the French aviatrix who set an endurance flight record of nearly 36 hours in 1930, died here today. She was preparing for an ambitious distance flight, but had not selected her objective.

3 Highwaymen Rob Man En Route Here

ALTOONA, Pa., June 9.—(AP.)—Three highwaymen blocked the road and robbed George Ashcroft, Altoona garageman, while he was driving to Pittsburgh today, of $90 cash and checks.

Hitler Fined $250 On Contempt Charge

MUNICH, Germany, June 9.—(INS.)—Adolf Hitler, leader of Germany's National Socialists and hailed by many as the next chancellor of the Reich, was fined $250 for contempt of court here today when he refused to answer questions regarding the alleged receipt of campaign funds from huge munitions works.

Hitler's contempt occurred during the trial of Werner Abel, German author, on charges of perjury. The Nazi leader was called as a witness.

Aged Woman Prays, Robber Ceases Attack, Flees

The prayer which Miss Julia McGrew, 69, uttered as a robber rained blows on her in her home, 1863 Clayton avenue, early today, was answered immediately. As she voiced her supplication, the robber ceased the attack and fled.

Later police arrested Ernest Kenny, 29, no home, who, they say, was identified by Miss McGrew as her assailant and he was held for further investigation. A "jimmy," similar to the one with which Miss McGrew was beaten, was found on Kenny.

Miss McGrew was writing in the kitchen of the 16-room McGrew homestead where sch lives alone, shortly after midnight, when a man ascended the cellar stairs. As he approached her she stabbed at him with her pen. The man wielded a "jimmy" and felled her. As she battled on the floor Miss McGrew prayed and the man fled.

Cries of Miss McGrew brought Fred Drengwits, a neighbor, who fired several shots at the fleeting robber. Later police arrested Kenny.

THE PROBLEM

THE LEAGUE FOR SOCIAL JUSTICE says: "The Bureau of Social Research believes 60,000 families in Allegheny County will be under the care of relief agencies by December."

THE REMEDY

'Dead' Baby Revived, Fails to Recover

A 2-day-old baby, thought dead, revived after it had been taken to an undertaking establishment early today, died a short time later in Mercy Hospital.

The infant was a son of Walter and Regina Greene, of 7531 Mulford street. Believed dead, it was taken to M. F. Leslie, undertaker, of 628 Brushton avenue, who found it living when he started to examine the body. At the hospital the baby was placed in an incubator, cried and then fell asleep. It died in its sleep at 3 a. m.

Woman Dies From Shock Of Seeing Pet Dog Killed

A shock suffered at the sight of her pet Pekingese dog being killed by an auto was believed today to have contributed to the death of Mrs. Ella Dolan Malley, 49, wife of Councilman John J. Malley, of Sharpsburg.

Mrs. Malley had been in ill health for two months. She died yesterday at the family residence, 1716 Middle street, Sharpsburg.

Members of the family stated Mrs. Malley was very fond of the dog. While Mrs. Malley was getting an airing last Wednesday, she saw her pet killed. Mrs. Malley, who was born in Etna, leaves her husband, four sons, John, Regis, Edward and Ralph Malley, and a daughter, Miss Grace Malley, all at home.

POLICE ON GUARD AS TWO MORE VET ARMIES PASS HERE

ALLEGED REDS GET RIDE IN CITY TRUCKS

Taken East of McKeesport; Coast Soldiers, Still Here, Refuse to Combine Units

Two more "armies" of bonus service men moved through the Pittsburgh district today en route to Washington to join the thousands now there demanding immediate payment of the service bonus.

One was the second contingent of the Workers Ex-Service Men's League, numbering 120 and said by police to be a Communist organization, whose first division, arriving from New Castle yesterday, brought a call for police reserves as it threatened to march on the City-County Building with a demand for trucks to carry its 200 members to Washington.

VETS FROM COAST

The other was composed of about 350 veterans from California and Oregon, who reached McKees Rocks by truck and on foot from New Castle on the eighteenth day of their long trek from the western coast.

Its leaders claimed every man in its ranks carried discharge papers and that not one was a Communist. They refused to join with the Workers League group on account of the latter's alleged "Red" tendencies.

Both groups spent the night in McKees Rocks, the Workers League contingent climbing off a freight train from New Castle shortly after midnight and the westerners arriving about 20 minutes later.

Early this morning the Workers League group left McKees Rocks for Pittsburgh via West Carson street.

BRIDGES UNDER GUARD

As they neared the Point Bridge, the marchers found 100 police, under Assistant Superintendent Ben R. Marshall, thrown along a mile-long front, from the Duquesne Heights Incline to the Smithfield Street Bridge.

They broke ranks and loped along the curbing and in the roadway until eight city trucks, guarded by a police motorcycle escort, took them aboard and started for Versailles Township, beyond McKeesport, where the city "dumped" the first contingent of Workers' league members yesterday.

Patrol wagons and radio cruisers were stationed at each bridge entrance, their crews ordered to drive them across the approach and form a barricade if the marchers attempted to cross either bridge into the downtown section before boarding the trucks.

Richard L. Smith replaced J. C. Pace, of Detroit, as leader of the workers' group when the "army" learned at New Castle last night that Pittsburgh police intended to arrest Pace for questioning in connection with the riots which 900 alleged veterans staged in the Cleveland yards Saturday.

PLEAD FOR TRUCKS

As the "army" halted in West Carson street at the edge of the police lines, Smith asked Marshall if the police would furnish trucks for his men. He told the police leader that his men were not Communists and promised they would be orderly, although previously he had said:

"I'll be damned if we'll walk any further."

Marshall told him he would get trucks as soon as possible.

While the men sprawled along the roadway, hungry, unwashed and in tattered clothing, they received a welcome surprise. C. C. Wettach, president of the W. W. Lawrence Paint Company, in front of whose building and offices many of the group were loitering, sent each a box lunch and cigarets.

SET TO BALK INVASION

Police took special precaution to prevent any demonstration at the City-County Building, where the first group of Workers League marchers attempted to go yesterday to demand truck transportation to Washington, or at Central Police Station, where the leader of yesterday's group, C. B. Cowan, of Cleveland, is under arrest.

Cowan's delegation was placed on city trucks yesterday and taken to a field midway between McKeesport and Irwin where they were guarded by a police escort from Pittsburgh, Duquesne and Homestead until state troopers arrived. They later started on their way to Washington, some on foot, others "hopping" freight trains.

HEARING POSTPONED

Cowan was arrested by Marshall when he announced he intended to return to Pittsburgh.

His hearing was postponed in Central Police Court this morning because Marshall was unable to attend. He was sent back to his cell for a later hearing, probably tomorrow. Inspector Frank R. Boyd showed Magistrate Leo Rothenberg a report from Cleveland police, which said Cowan had been arrested there for a check forgery in 1928 and had served time in Atlanta Penitentiary for stealing from the mail.

The prisoner said he joined the Marines in 1918, but did not go overseas. He denied that he was a Communist, although Marshall called him "The worst Red I have ever seen."

WOMAN IN MARCH

cause out of their scanty funds they are keeping you here.

Are you living on those little towns, gentlemen—

BUT THEY ARE NOT LIVING—THEY ARE DYING!

There is starvation in the little towns today. There is heartbreak and hopelessness and despair. Does that startle you? It may. Perhaps in your contemplation of wealth and power and fame you have forgotten how poor and helpless those little towns were and are.

There were no Wall streets in those little towns—no Park avenues.... No bulging banks, no great endowed hospitals or clinics, no cleverly organized charities. Nothing but a little, winding street with small, shabby houses standing together—

Standing together—that's how they lived, those little towns. Sharing what they had. A loaf of new baked bread to the bride.... A strip of flannel and a bowl of goose grease for the croupy baby.... A surprise party to fill the minister's pantry.... The loan of a plough for the poor man's farm.

SMALL GIFTS.... Small loans.... But brotherly love as wide as God's own Heaven!

And now the bread jar is empty.... And the babies sicken for food.... And the poor man's farm lies untilled.

THE LITTLE TOWNS ARE DYING, GENTLEMEN. THEY ARE DYING WHILE YOU WISE-CRACK AND WRANGLE!

There is fear in those simple faces that once laughed down to your young questioning. There is despair in those kindly hearts that once comforted your small woes. There is want in those generous homes that once served your need—

MR. PRESIDENT—SENATORS AND REPRESENTATIVES—WILL YOU LET THIS GO ON? THOSE LITTLE TOWNS ARE NOT ONLY A BOYHOOD DREAM. THEY ARE AMERICA. THIS IS NOT AMERICA—THIS STATELY WHITE HOUSE, THIS DOMED CAPITOL, THAT IS NOT AMERICA—THAT WALL STREET WHICH CRACKS THE WHIP AND DEMANDS OUR MILLIONS. THE LITTLE TOWNS—THEY ARE AMERICA, AND IF THEY DIE—AMERICA DIES!

Gentlemen, will you let that happen?

Will you fail to approve relief measures?

Will you continue to squabble over ways and means, over procedure and precedent, over political prejudices and rival ambitions, while the little towns die?

Banking facilities and credits to revive small business concerns and rehabilitate and impoverished farms, government aid to start public works and provide jobs and food—without these the little towns of the country are dying! the end of the Lincoln car line. Earth taken from a cut was used together with some county shale, he said.

'FAVOR' REFUSED

One farmer, he said, refused to have his driveway widened by the use of county tile when it was explained he was supposed to help "the ticket."

The witness said:

"On September 14, I went in to get my pay. I was told: 'If Armstrong loses you don't need to come back.' I never did come back."

Twenty-two men he had never seen working were paid off every pay day for a year at the Christy Park warehouse, headquarters of the Fourth district of the county road department, a road foreman told the investigators today.

One of the men, the witness said he thought, was the proprietor of a moving picture house in McKeesport and another, a Negro preacher.

His story was corroborated in some respects by two other county employes, who told of seeing strangers at the Christy Park warehouse on payday.

Leo Riordan, of the County Claim Department, a county investigator, asked the questions with Assistant District Attorney E. T. Adair representing the District Attorney's office.

ROOSEVELT HITS SEABURY FOR 'QUIBBLE'

Letter Criticising Walker As 'Unfit' Declared to Constitute Formal Charge

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service

ALBANY, N. Y., June 9.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's first move today in the removal proceedings instituted against Mayor James J. Walker by Samuel Seabury was to accuse Seabury of "quibbling" over whether the documents constituted formal charges against the Mayor.

Roosevelt made it plain that he regarded the documents as formal charges against Mayor Walker, despite Seabury's statement to the contrary.

In his letter to the Governor, Seabury said he was submitting the documents "not as formal charges but for your information." Gov. Roosevelt declared:

"The letter and the document termed 'analysis' constitute, of course, charges. I see no reason for quibbling over terms."

Gov. Roosevelt had the documents piled on his desk when newspapermen were ushered into his private office shortly after noon.

The Governor said he intended to read every word of the 2,474 pages of testimony given by Mayor Walker before the Hofstadter committee as well as the analysis sent to him by Seabury.

He indicated that this might take him a week or two depending on how much time he could find to devote to it outside of other state business.

Seabury Declares Walker 'Unfit' as N. Y. Mayor

NEW YORK, June 9.—(INS.)—The case against Mayor James J. Walker formally tossed into the lap of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt by Samuel Seabury, who climaxed a series of conclusions with the declaration Walker's conduct rendered him "unfit to continue in the office of mayor," today became a major issue in the national political arena.

For in submitting to the Governor the transcript of the testimony relating to the Mayor before the Hofstadter legislative committee, Seabury, its chief counsel, in an accompanying letter put the issue of removing Walker from office squarely up to the Governor. Seabury wrote:

"From the record submitted and after a hearing, you can determine whether the public interests and the maintenance of decent standards among public officials require that the Hon. James J. Walker should be removed from the office of Mayor."

Fifteen specifications were made against the Mayor, including the assertion he failed to explain the source of his income except by "the same principle as the 'tin box' alibi," that he had fiscal transaction through using the account of his agent, Russell T. Sherwood, and that he held $10,000 in bonds of a firm which received a city contract, thus violating the city charter.

Improper actions in connection with the Equitable Bus Company franchise, and acceptances of "beneficences" from private persons, also were attributed to the Mayor.

Seabury plainly stated he made no "request or petition" in regard to the facts he submitted to the Governor, and he avoided using the word "charges" throughout his communication, but the net result was to leave the Governor with the task of determining the fitness of Walker to continue in office.

CAPITAL VETS ROAR PRAISE FOR COX

'Stay Until You Get Bonus,' Priest Urges; Ready for Plea Before Congress

islative committee, which is to meet later today.

SCORES BONUS REFUSAL

In his address, Father Cox said:

"The payment of the bonus would require an outlay of $7,000,000,000 by the government and the soldiers have been refused this payment time and time again, because they claim the payment of the bonus would render their country bankrupt.

"Yet during the past 10 years the Secretary of the Treasury has given back in refunds on income taxes to the multi-millionaires of the country an amount equal to that demanded for the soldiers' bonus.

"Refunds never were refused, but the soldiers' poor pay is always refused. There is no money for the soldiers or the jobless of the country, yet the government can find $2,000,000,000 for the bankers."

RETURNS TOMORROW

Father Cox made his hurried trip to Washington at the request of Pennsylvania veterans and Robert R. Williams, a Cleveland ex-service man, who called upon him in Pittsburgh claiming to represent the ex-service marchers' general committee. He is returning to Pittsburgh tonight for a trip to Canada and Europe which is to start tomorrow.

Walter W. Waters, commander-in-chief of assembled veterans, denied that Williams had been authorized to make the request or that he even knew him.

Many of the veterans looked upon "Williams" as an imposter, but were not willing to say what they imagined his motive might be if he were.

The Pennsylvania delegations request was made in the following telegram:

"We, the ex-service men, your buddies, hereby solicit your appearance at the Capitol as our spokesman to intercede in our behalf for our cause. We hereby invite you to plead our cause. Answer immediately to Edward J. Heaney, commander, Pennsylvania Division, Camp Camden, Anacostia, D. C."

It was signed by Heaney and Joe Walker, commander of 24 disable veterans from Carbondale.

SCORN FREE TRUCKS

Trucks furnished by police rolled up to the bonus marchers' camps on schedule today, but not a single veteran accepted Police Supt. Glassford's invitation to ride out of the city and head for home.

Instead, fortified by nearly $3,000 raised at a boxing benefit last night, most of the 8,000 or more war veterans prepared to stay until, as Walter W. Waters, commander-in-chief, put it, the "bonus is paid."

A "dummy" in a wheel chair, with a loaf of stale bread under his arm, had a sign declaring:

"No food at home—so why go there till 1945?"

Two large trucks were driven up to the Eighth and I streets encampment to the derisive jeers of the 400 men.

One man shouted:

"Who's going home?"

The whole band answered in chorus:

"Nobody!"

Today 350 new arrivals entered the encampments. Only 30 so-called members of the Workers Ex-Servicemen's League, a Communist organization, remained out of 300 on hand Tuesday.

Anti-Dry Increases Lead Over Mrs. Owen

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 9.—(AP.)—The apparent triumph of Mark Wilcox, anti-dry opponent of Representative Ruth Bryan Owen in their race for congressional nomination in the Fourth Florida District, grew to greater proportions today as more returns rolled in from Tuesday's Democratic primary.

Votes from 333 of the 419 precincts in the district gave Wilcox a lead of 7,806. The vote was 41,243 for Wilcox and 33,437 for Mrs. Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan.

Coolidge Anti-Dry Statement Denied

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP.)—Cosmopolitan magazine today denied an assertion of Representative Celler, in the House today, that former President Calvin Coolidge would condemn prohibition in an article in the July issue.

Wounds Prove Fatal To Scranton Woman

SCRANTON, Pa., June 9.—(AP.)—Shot twice in the head yesterday by her husband, Mrs. Thomas Cadden, 33, died today in the West Side Hospital.

She formerly was Margaret Corcoran, Pittston school teacher.

Cadden, son of M. A. Cadden, Scranton contractor, died immediately after he had shot his wife and then sent a bullet into his own head.

Sues Richman

MISS VIRGINIA BIDDLE

Miss Biddle, suing the actor, Harry Richman, for $25,000 growing out of gasoline explosion on his yacht, Federal Judge Galston, in New York, ruled Richman's liability was limited to the value of the yacht. The Follies girl was burned, Helen Walsh killed.

state Republican platform added strength to the gossip over the attitude of the President. Senator Watson, the administration leader, comes from Indiana.

Mott, Y. M. C. A. Leader, For Dry Resubmission

LONDON, June 9.—(AP.)—John R. Mott, president of the World's Alliance of the Y. M. C. A., and head of the International Missionary Council, told the Associated Press today that he would welcome a thoroughgoing reconsideration of prohibition as a policy in the United States, on certain conditions.

Dr. Mott said:

"I am not in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, because with all its limitations and certain disappointing circumstances in connection with its working, I believe its good results far transcend those which have been unfavorable.

"At the same time I would welcome a nationwide, thoroughgoing reconsideration of prohibition as a policy on two conditions,

"First, that such a reconsideration be in the form of a popular vote in the various states, in no way related to any political campaign.

"Second, that it be in the form of a clear-cut expression of choice between (a) the present plan of nationwide prohibition; and (b) a definite or concrete alternative plan.

"I emphatically oppose a referendum in the form of a choice between (a) the present plan; and (b) its rejection as contrasted with no concrete substitute."

Dr. Mott is in favor of reconsideration for two reasons, he said:

"First, it would be a good thing for the present younger generation to study all the facts.

"Second, many good men question the present policy, and it would be wise to get their views."

Schwab at Loretto, Refuses Interview

LORETTO, Pa., June 9.—(AP.)—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, has arrived at his summer home in the heart of the mountains to remain until the late autumn "just roaming the hills."

He declined to discuss the steel industry and asked to be "excused from talking business."

FLEISHER, LINDY SUSPECT, GIVES UP

Leader of 'Purple Gang' Surrenders in Detroit; Sought in 3 Countries

DETROIT, June 9.—(AP.)—Harry Fleisher, sought for many months throughout the United States and Canada in connection with the Lindbergh baby kidnaping and Detroit's Collingwood apartment massacre, surrendered to police today.

Fleisher, well dressed in a light suit and wearing a straw hat, appeared extremely nervous. He held a handkerchief over his face, as though expecting to face newspaper photographers, but none was in the room when he arrived. He was taken to the office of Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, in the same building. The prosecutor went into conference with Fleisher and his attorneys.

POSES FOR PICTURE

When Fleisher came from the prosecutor's office he was seemingly less nervous and posed for photographers. He refused to answer questions. He was asked:

"Did you have anything to do with the Lindbergh kidnaping?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

Prosecutor Toy said he had instructed police to notify federal authorities of Fleisher's arrest. He said Fleisher had been sought on a charge of violating the federal prohibition laws.

EARLY ARRAIGNMENT

He also stated that Fleisher would be arraigned tomorrow in Recorders Court on a warrant outstanding for several months, charging him with complicity in the Collingwood massacre.

Three former members of Detroit's Purple Gang are serving life sentences for the Collingwood slayings, in which three men met death as the outcome of a beer feud.

Fleisher was reported to have been seen in the Southland Mountains region in New Jersey when the Lindbergh baby was stolen. Later he was reported having been seen in California and Mexico.

'Jafsie' Visits Boston In Lindy Search

BOSTON, June 8.—(AP.)—Dr. John F. Condon, of New York, the "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case, made what was apparently a surprise visit to Boston police headquarters today.

Dr. Condon was accompanied by New Jersey state police investigators. They arrived on the night boat from New York.

"Jafsie" said he had come to Boston to see the rogues' gallery and attempt to identify a man known as "John the German," to whom he paid $50,000 in a New York graveyard for the return of the kidnaped son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. The baby's body later was found near the Lindbergh home.

Mrs. McLean Reveals Means Hoax Details

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP.)—Cross-examination of Mrs. Edward B. McLean reopened today the trial of Gaston B. Means, indicted for swindling the wealthy woman out of $104,000 intended a ransom for the ill-fated Lindbergh baby.

Mrs. McLean, wife of a publisher, yesterday calmly recounted from the witness stand her amazingly melodramatic story of being led by Means on a wildgoose chase to the Mexican border in quest of the child, of meeting "The Fox," a man who played the part of go-between, of promises by this "Fox," to deliver the child under a guard of machine guns, and of the stalls which kept her in the hunt until finally, out of patience, she demanded back and failed to get, the ransom money entrusted to Means.

Blonde, dressed in black, Mrs. McLean was a picture of composure. Not a whit less calm, Means, the detective-extraordinary of many an amazing escapade, sprawled his huge well-padded frame in a chair and twirled his hat, gazing at the witness from time to time.

Mother Saves Two Children in Fire

WHEELING, W. Va., June 9.—Mrs. Clarence R. Barte saved the lives of her son, Ray, 3, and daughter, Wanda Lee, 6, whom she carried from their burning home yesterday as the roof crashed down. Both children were quarantined as the result of an attack of measles.

Attorneys Give Views On J. D.'s Bolt of Drys

A jurist and members of the Allegheny County Bar Association today commented upon the statement of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., advocating repeal of the prohibition amendment. They said:

JUDGE FRANK P. PATTERSON—Mr. Rockefeller expressed conclusions I have advocated for years in the interest of true temperance, facts my experience on the bench have proven true.

JOHN E. LAUGHLIN, Dean of Duquesne University Law School—I received it with favor. It is the most illuminating document on the subject, emphasized by Mr. Rockefeller's former views, his study and sincerity.

JAMES H. DUFF, Delegate Republican National Convention—I think it shows the trend of opinion.

ARTHUR M. SCULLY, former president Allegheny County Bar Association—It is extremely important and I believe it will break the backbone of prohibition. It demonstrates the fact that conscientious advocates of temperance are convinced now repeal is essential.

H. FRED MERCER, Attorney—Mr. Rockefeller's new stand will be of great aid to the wets and will have enormous influence towards bringing about resubmission.

DETROIT'S FIGHTING MAYOR DEMANDS 5 BILLION JOB LOAN

SCORES DELAY IN MEETING CRISIS

Murphy Declares Congress Had Warning 2 Years Ago; No Solution but Work

By KENNETH CLARK
Universal Service

WASHINGTON, June 9.—"It is defiance of all laws of nature and of nature's God for men to remain idle.

"A government that will permit men to remain idle and rot is unworthy of its name."

In these words, Detroit's young hard-hitting mayor, Frank Murphy, today appealed to Congress to enact without delay the $5,000,000,000 federal prosperity loan.

It is the only way to stem the downward trend of business, he told Universal Service. It will provide work and work will start the wheels of industry whirring. Once momentum is gained, the economic machinery will lead the nation safely out of the present morass. Return of prosperity will be speeded. Mouthings about prosperity "being just around the corner" will not be mere political shibboleths.

AGGRESSIVE MAYOR

These things Murphy said in a remarkable interview. His eyes blazed under his shaggy lashes. His jaw set determinedly. He pounded a sturdy fist on the table for emphasis.

Mayor Murphy pointed to the plight of the war veterans as one highlight of the unemployment situation which a public works program would correct. He said:

"The invasion of the national capital by the bonus army is a symbol of revolt throughout the country against the indifference of the government. The veterans are being treated stupidly here."

The federal government long, long ago had warning what would occur if it temporized with unemployment and its consequent problems, Murphy declared, but the leaders failed, closed their eyes to the true picture of conditions.

NOT TOO LATE

It is late, but not too late to act, he said. Congress is still in session and can "redeem itself" by passing the huge bond issue for public works.

Failure to act, he warned, however, would lead to evil consequences none can accurately foretell. But the toll in shattered morale, in health, in standards of life, it will be terrific, he stated.

The cost of continued unemployment, the wrecking of the industrial machine, will be far more dear in the end than the immediate bond issue of $5,000,000,000, he pointed out. He scouted parrot talk in Washington about balancing the budget. The welfare of all the people is more important than figures on a ledger sheet, Murphy said.

"We need a plan. It goes without saying the plan must be a sound one.

"The government to direct the plan is the federal government. It would save money by doing it. The whole relief program is chaotic, haphazard, spotty and planless.

"The best plan proposed is the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan. It is the only one suggested thus far which will take care of a sufficient number of idle men to stimulate industry and promote return of prosperity.

MUST PROVIDE WORK

"It will provide work. It is not likely there will be a revival until work is provided.

"The economic breakdown which swept the country like a cyclone started two years ago. Every evidence of terrifying famine was present then. It was difficult to understand how Congress adjourned without a plan providing both for work and wages for the helpless victims.

"The storm was at its wildest then, but the same thought that dominated the leaders at that time still lingers today; that the laws of economics will work magically or the hand of providence will suddenly erase the blight.

"Those of us close to the scene deplored that Congress adjourned two years ago without action and shortly thereafter we appealed for a special session to enact unemployment relief. It was frowned off in all quarters. It was thought again that conditions would improve by themselves. It didn't occur.

"The government having failed in these two instances may yet redeem itself for Congress is in session and the storm that struck the country two years ago has not abated."

ENGINEER WEDS JAP HEIRESS

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 9.—(AP)—Miss Fuji Hashimoto Hale Adamson, a daughter of Japanese parents and heiress to the fortune of a Philadelphia manufacturer, was married yesterday to Henry L. Stephens, an engineer of Brooklyn and this city.

The bride, 20, inherited the estate of her foster-father, William Baeder Adamson, glue manufacturer, who died in April, 1931. He was a childless widower.

She is the daughter of a Japanese gardener and maid employed by Adamson at the time of her birth. When she was an infant she became the manufacturer's ward and when she was four years old her parents returned to Japan.

A year before Adamson's death she was legally adopted by him with her mother's consent, her father having died. The estate she inherited was about a half a million dollars.

Blaze in East Pittsburgh Injures 8, Mother Rescues Five

Trapped on the second floor of their home at 325 Beach avenue, East Pittsburgh, five persons narrowly escaped death early today in a fire which destroyed the house with an estimated loss of $5,000. Five firemen were injured.

Elmer Friedman, 11, son of Joseph Friedman, awakened by his father, was seriously burned when he attempted to flee the house by dashing through the flame-filled hallway. He was taken to Braddock General Hospital, after being carried from the building by his brother, Saul, 23.

The youth, his father and two sisters and another brother owe their lives to their mother, who placed a ladder to the second floor window by which they escaped.

Saul suffered slight burns. Margaret Friedman, 18, who escaped from the second floor by ladder also was slightly burned.

Two of the injured firemen were burned and three cut by flying glass. Those injured were William Crosley and Anthony Fiftely, burned, and Oswald Sannhuber, William Kessler and John Bates cut about the face and hands. They were treated at the scene of the fire.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Friedman who was asleep on the first floor. She aroused her daughter, Elizabeth Schwartz, 18, Milton 6, and Florence 5, and aided them to the street unharmed.

Fearing for the safety of her husband and family on the second floor she obtained a ladder, erecting it to the second floor window.

Joseph Friedman said he was awakened as flames scorched his head.

GEESE BLAMED IN GUN 'DUEL'

There was a display of gunfire out in West Point street, it was testified in Morals Court today, when the Kovachak geese wandered into the garden of Steven Koller, one of the city foresters.

Koller fired six shots to frighten the geese, he testified. This brought a reply from the Kovachak home. John Kovachak, 17, armed with a shot gun, hopped over the fence, followed Koller to the porch and threatened to shoot him, it was testified.

Kovachak was held for court on a charge of pointing firearms and violating the state firearms act. Koller was discharged.

Warning Sent Out Against Salesmen

A warning against salesmen distributing an electrical device in the Pittsburgh district has been sent out by the Better Business Bureau of Pittsburgh. According to the information received by the local bureau the men represent themselves as being associated with a Cleveland concern which has disavowed any connection with the men or the machine. It is said many persons have paid $50 for the device, used principally for the treatment of paralysis and high blood pressure.

Fagan Addresses Terminal Miners

P. T. Fagan, district president of the United Mine Workers of America, yesterday addressed the idle miners of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation at an open air meeting near Horning No. 4 mine. Deputy sheriffs at Pittsburgh Coal Company No. 10 mine Library, said picketing continued without disorder.

The strike started a week ago when the Pittsburgh Coal Company gave notice of a 10 per cent wage reduction.

Saw Cuts Off Water Supply From Needy

SHARON, Pa., June 10. Somebody sawed the handle off the East Hill community pump. Unemployed residents who have relied on the pump for their water supply, have been placed at a disadvantage.

Cavanaugh, Verona Get Convention Jobs

Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, of Homestead, and John Verona, Third Ward organization leader, have been named assistant sergeants-at-arms for the Republican national convention.

Capt. Edward Speer, Independent, is to be a doorkeeper, and P. J. O'Malley will boss the sergeants-at-arms, giving Allegheny County a fair share of convention patronage.

101 Chinese Rebels Killed by Japanese

HARBIN, Manchuria, June 9.—(INS)—One hundred and four Chinese rebels were killed today in a sharp engagement with Japanese troops 20 miles from Harbin. Five Japanese were killed and 10 wounded.

The fighting occurred when a Japanese armored train rescued an ammunition train from a rebel raid.

Aimee Ill as Mate Fights $200,000 Balm Suit

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—(AP)—Evangelist Aimee McPherson Hutton lay ill abed today behind the cream-colored walls of Angelus Temple, while her husband, David Hutton, exchanged unpleasantries with the nurse who sued him for breach of promise.

Statement countering statement, the only point on which Hutton and Myrtle St. Pierre agreed was that there would be no compromise of her demand of $200,000 for a broken heart.

At her home, Miss St. Pierre charged that her witnesses had been molested. At the temple, near the room where his wife is suffering from the recurrence of a nervous ailment, Hutton declared the charge false.

Miss St. Pierre said her life had been threatened. Hutton denied that, too, and added he intended to "tear the veil from her past life." She asserted she had been offered $2,000 to drop the suit. Hutton said:

"I haven't offered her anything. There may be men who would rather pay than be dragged through the courts by women, but I am not one of them."

Mr. and Mrs. Hutton have just returned from a trip to Central America which was intended to improve her health.

Minister, Family Periled by Bomb

PORTLAND, Ore., June 9.—(AP)—The home of the Rev. Bjorn J. Johannson, leader in a recent movement to recall Mayor George L. Baker and Former City Commissioner John M. Mann, was damaged by a bomb placed under the front porch early today.

No one was injured although the minister, who is pastor of the New Christian Church, was asleep with his wife and two children in a room directly above the spot where the explosion took place.

3-Story Fall Kills Aliquippa Boy, 2

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., June 9.—Robert, two, son of Clyde Edelin, fell from the third-story window of his home at 405 Franklin avenue and was killed.

Falls From Train As It Nears Yards

Falling from a Pennsylvania Railroad train into a wall at West Park, Sam McBurney, 28, of 1511 Magnolia street, was in Allegheny General Hospital today suffering a probable fracture of the skull. Police said McBurney attempted to leave the train as it neared the Fort Wayne yards and fell.

Swissvale Woman Dies in Chicago

Found dead in a hotel room in Chicago, Mrs. Rose West, 27, of 7304 Elsemere avenue, Swissvale, was a victim of heart disease, according to word received here by relatives. Mrs. West, employed in St. Louis and Chicago, had registered at the hotel Tuesday.

"NO PICTURES," SAID IRON MAN DAVE HUTTON, HUSBAND

What mystery there is in the Aimee Semple McPherson household, now back from Central America, prevents photographs, Aimee, in Los Angeles, was reported very pale. This was taken by International News Photograph Service.

DONNER AIDING WAR ON CANCER

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—(INS)—A new cancer research foundation was taking form here today following an endowment of $2,000,000, a gift of William H. Donner of Villanova, retired Pittsburgh steel millionaire.

The death of a son, Joseph W. Donner, three years ago, it was learned, led Donner to establish the foundation. At the organization meeting yesterday of what will be known as the International Cancer Research Foundation, Donner was elected its president.

Arthur V. Morton, president of the Pennsylvania Hospital, will serve as vice president of the foundation. Directors are Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania; Edward R. Weidlein, of the Mellon Institute for Industrial Research of Pittsburgh, and former United States Senator George Wharton Pepper. The Fidelity-Philadelphia Company will act as treasurer.

The $2,000,000 fund will be devoted exclusively to assist qualified investigators. None of it will be spent for buildings.

ROBERT R. WILLIAMS

Mr. Williams, Cleveland veteran, who said he represented the general committee of the veterans now at the Capitol, came from Washington with the invitation asking Father James R. Cox to plead their cause at the U. S. Capitol. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

CHILE TAKES OVER BANK

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 9.—(AP)—Chile's new government began to put its Socialist policies into operation today.

The Central Bank, created in 1926 on the advice of Prof. E. W. Kemmerer, the American financial adviser, was taken over and the board of directors dismissed.

Provincial authorities were directed to suspend taxes on properties whose owners haven't enough money to pay them.

School teachers were informed by the Minister of Education that an important part of their duty henceforth will be to "direct education toward Socialism in order to form a public conscience which will support the new Socialist republic."

RIVAL'S SLAYING JAILS WOMAN

York, Pa., June 9.—(AP)—A jealous wife who surprised her husband in a cottage with a 19-year-old widow was charged today with murder.

Witnesses said Mrs. Mable Spridornf, 31, walked into the home of her victim's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heist, last night, and asked:

"Who is Pauline Eckenrode?"

The young woman, mother of two children, arising from a sofa, replied:

"I am."

Without a word, Mrs. Spridornf slapped her face, police were told, pulled a pistol from her bosom, shot her fatally through the heart and fainted.

Joseph Spridornf, the Heists and the Misses Ada and Lydia Chronister, neighbors, saw the slaying. All were arrested as material witnesses.

Blind School Ready For Commencement

Commencement week will be ushered in at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, tonight with a concert by the musical department. At 2 p. m. tomorrow there will be an exhibition by the kindergarten and junior departments.

Two Aliquippa Men Indicted in Killings

BEAVER, Pa., June 9.—Eli Lutran, of Aliquippa, was indicted for the murder of Ignatz Ozenik, at Aliquippa, and Lee Brown, Negro, of Aliquippa, was indicted for the fatal shooting of James Milliner, also of Aliquippa, by the grand jury. The jury also returned true bills of arson against Salvatore Belcuffine, New Brighton shoemaker, and Daniel Lazor, Ambridge shoe merchant.

Air Mail Rates Increased 3 Cents

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(INS)—Increase of postage rates on air mail letters from 5 cents to 8 cents effective July 6, was announced by Postmaster General Brown today. The increase was estimated to net $3,000,000 additional revenue annually.

Under the new rates, letters will cost 8 cents per first ounce or fraction thereof and 13 cents for each additional ounce or fraction.

DEATH VERDICT SOUGHT FOR BLEDSOE

'First Degree or Nothing,' Says Prosecutor as He Outlines Donohoe Killing

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 9.—District Attorney Wade K. Newell, concluding his address to the jury opening the trial of R. C. Bledsoe and Cosmo Stengoni for the three-year-old murder of Constable Jack Donohoe, demanded a first degree verdict. He concluded:

"First degree murder or nothing."

If the District Attorney's outline was as surprising to the jury of eight men and four women as it was to the spectators in the overflowing courtroom, they did not show it as they settled back in their chairs for a parade of witnesses for the corroboration of the state's star witness upon whose confession Newell indicated his case was largely built.

BELL INFORMER

Anthony W. (Tony) Bell, former county detective, who has confessed to the crime of which he already has been acquitted, is accuser of Bledsoe and Stengoni. Once their pal in the Fayette liquor traffic, he declares in his confession he now hopes to clear his conscience and "tell all."

In his address Newell touched lightly on this phase of the case. Emphasizing the witnesses the state contends will corroborate Bell's testimony, he said:

"We are concerned here with a wilful, deliberate murder—one of the foulest in the history of Fayette County."

The first witness was County Detective Jack Hann, who testified briefly to signing the informations charging the defendants with murder. He was followed by Dr. S. A. Baltz, Coroner, who reviewed the finding of Donohoe's bullet-riddled body in his stalled automobile in a lonely lane near Masontown in July, 1929.

JURY MEMBERSHIP

Three days were required to select this jury.

W. Allen McDowell, Uniontown; Emmor H. Kelley, South Brownsville; John Helms, South Union Township; Mrs. Virginia Parsons, Fayette City; J. Kenneth Hoffman, Dawson; Mrs. Carmine Earle, Dunbar; Mrs. Anna Burkey, South Connellsville; Robert E. Boyd, German Township; Mrs. Rose Rankin, North Union Township; John Groves, Royal; Hetty Orr, Dawson, and Ewing Kennedy, Menallen Township. One hundred and ten men and women were examined before the jury was completed.

Most of the jurors are mother and fathers. Several have large families. Both of the defendants are family men. Bledsoe is the father of two sons and three daughters. Stengoni has seven children.

Attorneys E. J. McDaniel, Charles J. Baer and Charles J. L. Davidson are representing Bledsoe and Stengoni. Judge S. John Morrow is presiding.

Russ Trial Reveals Rail Wreck Disaste

MOSCOW, June 9.—(INS)—An appalling train wreck in which scores of persons were killed was revealed to the public for the first time today when 16 railway employes were placed on trial at Dnepropetrovsk in connection with the disaster.

The accident, it was revealed, occurred on May 15 at Zelenaya when two passenger trains collided head-on. Scores of passengers were crushed to death.

Weather Conditions.

Low pressure areas are centered over the St. Lawrence Valley, Northern Louisiana and the Far Northwest, while high pressure centered over Alberta covers the entire Northwest. The Mississippi Valley is producing rainy weather over most of that section and showers over the central and southern plains, the Central and Southern Mississippi Valley states and eastward over the gulf states to the Atlantic coast. The skies are clear over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region. It is not quite as cool over that section as yesterday morning, but light frost was again general over the lowlands of Western Pennsylvania.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Franklin, 2.6 feet. Lock No. 7 (Mon. R.), Pittsburgh, 13.1. Dam No. 4, 9.0. Dam No. 5, 7.5. Dam No. 10, 7.7, and Dam No. 12, 7.2. The dams are up.

Russia, but whether Russia would be willing to recognize the United States, in view of the dangerous and disastrous excesses of our tax system.

"Nevertheless, we could doubtless endure the communistic quality of this discriminatory tax if there were any benefit to the nation back of it.

"But the fact is that the diversion of capital from productive industry into idle investment and tax exempt securities means positively a definite and serious diminution of wealth-creating and job-creating industry.

"We are apparently knowingly and purposely reducing industry and employment through providing tax-exempt securities and deliberately diverting capital into such idle investment.

"Bolshevism, with all its faults, is more intelligent than this because it does not encourage capital to be inactive.

"It confiscates capital and compels it to work for the benefit of the community.

"Our confiscatory income tax system is not merely Communism. It is Communism gone mad.

"DEMOCRACY IS probably doomed in Germany, and either Fascism or Bolshevism will take its place.

"Why not send Floyd Gibbons to Italy to report on what Fascism has done for that nation and then to Russia to see what Bolshevism has done for Russia?

"I believe we are going to have Communism or Fascism in this country if we abandon democracy, and we are abandoning democracy.

"The 'soak the rich' program is a definite abandonment of the policy of equality before the law and in government, reached and practiced by founders of our republic.

"It is not dangerous to the rich. They evade it. But it is destructive to the fundamental principles of our republican institutions.

"With liberty violated by prohibition and equally violated by taxation, we are wandering far from the sound democracy on which this nation was founded.

"If we are not careful we will witness another Boston tea party."

VALUE OF STATE FARMS FALLS SHARPLY

General Price Level Reaches Lowest Point in 20 Years; Agriculture Report Says

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The value per acre farm lands with improvements in Pennsylvania depreciated from 140 per cent in 1920 to 96 per cent in 1932, according to a report by the Department of Agriculture.

Since 1920 the percentages have been [illegible] in 1925 and [illegible] 112 in [illegible] in 1928 [illegible] 1929 [illegible]

The report points out that the declines of the last two years although not as rapid as those which took place [illegible] began from a point that represented an adjustment to several years of reasonably stable prices and [illegible] a level [illegible] of a farm land boom.

The report says:

"Therefore, the declines represent not so much a discounting of previous speculation as a consequence of a decline in the general price level to the lowest point in nearly two decades."

An important condition accentuating the decline, it is explained, has been the increasing pressure on the farm lands market [illegible] occasioned by the increased [illegible] of farmers in meeting [illegible] and tax burdens assumed or levied at a higher price level.

Williams Student Dies By Shooting

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., June 9.—(AP.)—Malcolm E. Erskine, 20, of Stamford, Conn., a student at Williams College, was found shot to death in a closet of his room yesterday. Medical Examiner James W. Bunce said Erskine had committed suicide.

Erskine's body was found by Christopher W. Starwood of Wheeling for the senior since he left the Cleveland, O., fraternity brothers of Erskine, who had been searching for him, and Joseph O. Eaton, Jr., of fraternity house Monday night.

BUTLER, Pa., June 9.—Ephe Marian, Edith Bessie and Ethel Amelia, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Parker, who will be graduated from the senior high school tonight, are the first triplets to complete the high school course in Butler. They will be 18, November 6.

SOME ORPHANS MISS OUTING

Children from 30 institutions in the Pittsburgh district enjoyed an outing at the city parks yesterday, but a dozen others remained at home, quarantined because of chickenpox. The quarantine at the Children's Temporary Home, 1315 Liverpool street, prevented the children there from attending.

Approximately 500 children were given a holiday by the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh, the twenty-eighth annual picnic held by the club for children from local institutions. Automobiles took the guests to the Highland Park Zoo in the morning and then to Schenley Park for refreshments and entertainment. H. Lee Mason, Jr., was chairman of the committee in charge.

CHARGES FILED IN BANK CRASH

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 9.—Methods employed by L. M. Irwin, now serving a three-year term in a federal prison camp in Virginia for embezzlement in wrecking the Lincoln National Bank of Avella, were disclosed here with the filing of a suit by Harry G. Wilson, receiver, against the Fidelity and Deposit Company, of Maryland, to recover $29,500.

The company had bonded the bank against loss by fraud, dishonesty or embezzlement by its employes.

Wilson in his suit charged that President S. S. Campbell, Assistant Cashier Raymond M. Allison and Teller Frank H. Westlake, in a position to know the bank's condition, were used as tools by Irwin and assisted him in drawing cash from the bank on unsecured notes. Irwin's loans amounted to more than $102,000.

Civil War Vet Gives Secret of Long Life

ERIE, Pa., June 9.—(INS.)—A. E. Kingport, celebrating his 91st birthday yesterday attributes his longevity of life to daily calisthenics.

Kingport, a Civil War veteran, is a native of Harrisburg, where, for many years, he was successfully engaged in selling dry goods. He entered the Erie Soldiers' and Sailors' Home here in 1900 and left a short time later to seek employment. Now a stock trader, Kingport said he regularly enjoys a sip of "liquid corn."

DETAILS OF TAX ON CHECKS UP TO BANKS

Depositors Not Compelled To Face Inconvenience, Revenue Bureau Reveals

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP) Collection of the new 2-cent tax on checks, drafts and similar instruments which goes into effect on June 21, will cause no inconvenience to bank depositors of the country, but will be handled entirely from banks.

The Internal Revenue Bureau said today banks will report the total amount of checks at the end of each month. During the period banks will keep count of the number of checks drawn by depositors and at the end of the month enter the charge against depositors' accounts and issue a stamp. The depositors shall cancel the stamps by writing on the face of the check which is issued by the depositor at the date the check is drawn.

NEW POSTAL RATES

The new postal rates go into effect next month. The higher rates on second-class mail become effective on July 1, while the three-cent rate on first class mail is effective July 6.

Tax experts of the Internal Revenue Bureau continued today to work out regulations under which the new billion dollars in taxes will be collected.

While the regulations will not be completed for some time those applying to the taxes that become effective June 21 will be promulgated before that time. Most of the new excise taxes are levied upon the manufacturer and will be collected from that source.

The experts have kept abreast of the bill as it moved through Congress and about all that remains now is to decide the final form of the new regulations applying to the 10-day taxes.

Heiner Preparing List Of New Taxpayers Here

The field and office forces of D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue in the Pittsburgh district, comprising 26 counties in Western Pennsylvania, are engaged in preparing lists of taxpayers under the excise taxes imposed under the new revenue act.

The excise taxes imposed upon manufacturers or producers becomes effective beginning business on June 21.

Blank forms for use of new taxpayers will be received in Pittsburgh within a few days and in a letter of instruction from David Burnet, commissioner of internal revenue, to Collector Heiner, the latter is directed to be prepared for prompt delivery.

The forces of Collector Heiner are scanning telephone and city directories for the names of persons and corporations manufacturing or producing articles subject to the new taxes. Returns covering the period between June 21 and June 30 must be filed during July, the commissioner's letter said.

The revenue act imposes taxes on lubricating oil, brewers' wort and malt, grape concentrate, toilet preparations, furs, jewelry, automobiles, trucks and accessories, tires and inner tubes, radios and phonographs, mechanical refrigerators, sporting goods and firearms, firearms shells and cartridges, matches, candy, chewing gum, soft drinks, gasoline, electrical energy, telephone, telegraph, radio and cable facilities, leased wires, admissions, oil transportation by pipe line, safety deposit boxes and bank checks.

4 WOMEN DEAD IN AUTO CRASH

LATROBE, Pa., June 9.—Four women were dead and two men were recovering today from injuries as a result of the collision of two automobiles at the Hill Airport on the old Lincoln highway three miles from Latrobe last night. Three of the women were killed outright, crushed under the wreckage of their automobile.

The dead are Dorothy Miller, 18, and Rosella Miller, 35, of Manito, cousins; Mrs. Rose Fritz, 25, of Gravel Hill, and Margaret Burd, 28, of Kingston. The injured are Robert Freeman, 27, of Greensburg, and Theodore Ziegenfus, 26, of Latrobe, drivers of the two automobiles, police said.

The Miller girls were riding in a car driven by Ziegenfus and Mrs. Fritz and Miss Burd in the other.

Miss Dorothy Miller, a bookkeeper in the Latrobe Hospital, was one of the winners in a popularity contest held in Latrobe recently.

Hospitals Studying Needs of Jobless

Methods of attending the medical and surgical needs of destitute families in the Pittsburgh district are to be discussed by members of the boards of directors of the West Penn and Allegheny General hospitals today and tomorrow. The former were to meet this afternoon. The Allegheny General board will meet tomorrow.

Threatened loss of 25 per cent of the hospital's state aid have presented a serious problem in view of the increasing demands for free service.

BANKER TRAPS 2 IN EXTORTION

CAMDEN, N. J., June 9.—(AP) Two youths were held as extortionists today after walking into a trap set by detectives and the intended victim, George W. Norris, governor of the Philadelphia Federal Reserve Bank.

They are alleged to have demanded $5,000 from the banker in a series of threatening letters and to have accepted a dummy package of bank notes with which federal agents and city police baited the snare last night.

The prisoners are Joseph Wittman, Jr., of Audubon, N. J., and Fred Pickel, of Mt. Ephraim, N. J., both 19. Pickel's father, Ludwig, has been custodian of the Reserve Bank building for 15 years.

ARNOLD SCHOOL TO GRADUATE 8

New Battle Looms In Honduran Revolt

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 9.—(INS.)—Martial law was in effect in three Northwestern Honduran provinces today, while government troops, pursuing a rebel army through the mountains northward from La Barranca, expected to clash again as soon as reinforcements arrived.

The government revealed a bitter battle was fought at La Barranca in which 51 rebels were slain. Six government officers including Gen. Santos Cantarero and 11 men were killed, while 16 soldiers were wounded.

HOLDS BUDGET KEY TO BOOM

ATLANTIC CITY, June 9.—Balancing of the national budget is the first step toward return of prosperity, A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company asserted as he arrived today to attend the National Electric Association's fifty-eighth annual convention. He said:

"If the budget of the national government is balanced and the uncertainties of the present moment resolve into certainties of not too drastic nature, we may reasonably expect steady improvement in general business conditions which would result in benefit not only to the light and power industry but all other business as well."

COX SPURS ON FUND DRIVE

Father Cox devoted nearly all of the day yesterday to concentrating his staff of helpers and the members of his "Blue Shirts" on a greater drive for subscriptions for the Sun-Telegraph. This was encouraged by the receipt of another liberal check from this newspaper in payment for subscriptions that had been sent in by persons who followed this plan in making a donation to aid in carrying on the wide-reaching welfare activities of the pastor of Old St. Patrick's.

Father Cox

In his closing instructions before going away, Father Cox urged everyone of his supporters to get behind this home delivery drive as it is one of the utmost important sources he can really depend upon for obtaining funds to feed the hungry. Subscription blanks can be obtained at Father Cox's headquarters or can be clipped from the Sun-Telegraph.

For every subscription that comes in on the Sun-Telegraph special home delivery blank herewith printed and for every subscription otherwise secured through the efforts of the "father of the jobless" and his aides, Father Cox gets a liberal commission in cash which is employed to furnish food and clothing to his army of destitute men, women and children. Here is you opportunity to help a more than worthy cause and at the same time brine a GOOD newspaper to your home.

Oakmont Branch of National Farm Group Uses Usual Prize Cash For Welfare Gardens

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Two hundred and twenty-six entries were registered in the annual flower show of the Oakmont Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, which was held yesterday in St. Thomas Parish House. It was a beautiful exhibit, even larger than in former years, and showed almost every variety of flower now blooming in the neighborhood gardens.

The stage in the assembly room was given over to the Oakmont Woman's Club exhibit—a double house and garden, one side a model of beauty and neatness, and the other as a careless owner might have it.

Only ribbon awards were made this year, the money that is usually expended in prizes having been used to furnish materials for the 168 welfare gardens in the community.

Awards went to Mrs. O. E. Watkins, Mrs. H. J. Smale, Mrs. William R. McKown, Mrs. S. F. Chapman, Mrs. C. B. Blue, Jr., Mrs. Walter Gregg, Mrs. W. D. Hill, Miss Mary Lee Paul, Mrs. W. B. Martin, Mrs. P. V. Faragher, Mrs. L. P. Forman, Mrs. J. H. Caldwell, Mrs. William A. Morten, Miss Emily Warner, Miss Mary Mastrocesore, Mrs. A. H. Bowen and Mrs. G. F. Greenaway.

Mrs. Caldwell was chairman in charge of the show. Mrs. E. W. Dunham is chairman of the branch.

Men Need Wives' Help Federation Head Says

SEATTLE, June 9.—(AP)—A plea for American womanhood to take an active part in the approaching national elections greeted the 3,000 delegates arriving here today, for the twenty-first biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The message came from Mrs. Grace M. Poole, of Brockton, Mass., unopposed candidate for the federation presidency for the next two years.

Headed by Mrs. Poole, a special train arrived from the East yesterday with more than 200 passengers, after an overland journey across Canada. Mrs. John F. Sippel, of Baltimore, president, and a party of 18 arrived Wednesday by steamship.

Most of today is being given over to committee meetings and the registration of delegates.

With Mrs. Sippel presiding, the convention will be officially opened tonight. Mrs. Sippel, interviewed today, said:

"It's the job of the women of the nation to keep up the morale of the home. We must do double duty. We must keep up the spirit of the breadwinner. The man who leaves his home every morning worries about losing his job, taking salary cuts. When he comes home at night he must have surcease from his troubles. He must be mothered."

THE PRINTED AFTERNOON DRESS PROVES FASHIONS FAVORITE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 9.—One more American fashion has found its way into French circles. It is the printed afternoon dress.

* * *

UP TO NOW, an eye of aloofness has been cast upon printed silks by all designers who specialized in costumes for afternoon wear. Prints were listed among those materials suitable for the "little" dress—which is what Paris terms its morning dresses, the frocks which were never permitted to appear from the luncheon hour on.

* * *

BUT AMERICAN women insisting on printed afternoon dresses as the ideals for summer bridge parties and teas had their way, and the printed afternoon dress now appears among Paris style ideas.

* * *

IN ITS French version the printed afternoon dress may be as simple or as elaborate as any afternoon dress, but its design usually follows the simple black-and-white recipe for smartness. Tiny flowers, that appear as mere dots, and checked or plaided designs are the more popular patterns.

* * *

MAINBOCHER, an American designer, shows these two models sketched among the dresses in his Paris collection. One is in street length, the other is more formal instep length—the type of dress which may be worn to an afternoon affair, yet be appropriate for dinner and dancing later.

* * *

ONE IS IN flowered crepe de chine—tiny black buds and leaves against a cream-colored background and woven diagonal stripes; the other is in mousseline de soie, in a large plaid pattern which combines gray, white and black.

* * *

THE BELTS on both frocks are of leather. On the less formal, the belt is of red leather, buckled with steel; on the more formal frock, the narrow belt is of black suede.

SCHOOL WAGE SYSTEM HERE UPHELD

Elementary Teachers Get Less Than Head Janitors, Board Member Reveals

Head janitors of Pittsburgh public schools receive as much as some elementary teachers; in Chicago one gets more than a principal; but nothing like that exists here, N. R. Criss, chairman of the Board of Education Finance Committee, said today.

The pay of a head janitor in a high school, a position equivalent to superintendent of the building, Criss said, is $8 to $9 a day according to the school's size, with helpers receiving $4.60. In the elementary schools the head janitor gets $7.50 and helpers $4.50.

EXPLAINS BASIS

Elementary teachers as beginners receive $120 a month (20 days) or $6 a day. Janitors are paid on the basis of six days a week, because they report for work daily. The maximum salary of an elementary teacher is $220 a month or $11 a day. Principals in the elementary schools receive $4,000 a year and in high schools $6,000.

Commenting on Chicago paying one head janitor $5,750 against $4,000 a year for a principal, Criss said:

"The figures quoted on the pay of teachers and principals in the Pittsburgh schools, including those of janitors will be 10 per cent less after July 1, these having accepted reductions. The use of the words 'head janitor' is misleading. He is the equivalent of a building superintendent and must have a general knowledge of all things concerning the running of a building."

EXPENSES CUT

Criss said several years ago a survey of the floor space in school buildings, walls and lawns was made, resulting in a saving of more than $100,000. Criss added:

"As a result of this survey we were able to cut down our janitor expense to around $900,000 in fixing the number of employes that should be stationed in each building. Some are much larger than others. The pay is regulated according to the size of the building."

Pennsy Suit Asks $2,600 for Damages

HARRISBURG, June 9.—(INS.)—Compensation totaling $2,600 was asked of the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday for property taken in elimination of a grade crossing in Albion, Erie county, according to proceedings filed with the Public Service Commission.

John I. Burke and his wife, Viola, of 719 Stambaugh avenue, Sharon, ask $1,800 for their property, and Sabina Allen, of Conneaut Township, set $800 as the price for her property.

Soviet Auto Output Falls Behind Quota

MOSCOW, June 9.—(AP)—Russia's automobile industry has fallen behind its quota, but the factory heads blame their troubles on the producers of raw materials.

Recently the plant at Nizhni-Novgorod fell below normal production and now the Amo truck plant is unable to turn out its scheduled 70 trucks a day. The newspaper Pravda said these difficulties were caused by failure of half a dozen factories producing steel, glass, body frames and similar articles to produce enough to supply the auto factories.

Police Seek World Unity Against Reds

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—(AP)—A plan to unite police organizations of the world in a fight against radicalism will be considered at the conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police in Portland, Ore., next week, William B. Mills, superintendent of police, said today.

Mills was a member of a committee which met in New York recently to discuss plans for the movement. He said the apprehension and extradition of criminals in foreign countries also would be discussed.

Faculty Charges Dean With Tyranny

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP)—Dean George R. Hardie, of Long Island University, is accused of tyranny, espionage and mismanagement today in a letter of protest from faculty members to Frank P. Graves, state commissioner of education.

The dean ignored a request of faculty members that he resign. The request was made on May 7. An effigy of the dean was burned on the university's campus Tuesday, and students announced that he would be burlesqued in vaudeville skits Friday night.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Lone Wolf

He hunts Alone—he needs no fawning pack
To share his den or bring his prey to earth;
He has no meek contingent at his back.
To eat his spoils or undermine his worth;
And, living thus, he rouses the distain
Of weaker foe who tremble in the night;
They envy him the glory of his reign,
They wonder at his courage in the fight.

Let him falter once—the pack creeps in,
Intent to gain the substance of his loot;
Let him but rise—the pack begins to thin
As they return to more secure pursuit;

Ah, little wolves, stay in your little class—
Pause for awhile—and let a lone wolf pass!

"What course are you playing?" was the retort.

Quiteso, Quiteso

Several seasons ago it was Walter O'Keefe who described Hollywood as being nothing but "Bridgeport with palm trees." Dorothy Parker's observation was more gentle. She said: "Hollywood, where the great big, wide, beautiful avenues lead to nowhere."

Swifty

Len Traube's suggestion for the movie colony's new nickname: "Unhollywood."

Moviegrams

From Walt Hackett, of Chicago, comes these additions to the moviegram game: Does Nancy Carroll lot for you? Have you Ben Lyon to me again?. . . When I make out my will I'm going to leave Dorothy Mackaill. Wonder what kind of a game John Boles? Anita Page has never been written. Clark Gable lot of girls something to talk about.

Jack, the Giant Killer

They were holding auditions for a musical show the other night and vocalizers were offering samples for the hard-boiled witnesses. One lass canaried prettily for a few bars and the producer nodded approval to which an assistant called out: "Okay for soubrette in the No. 1 Company!"

Another warbler was selected and the assistant chirped: "Okay for ingenue in the No. 2 Company."

When a mannishly attired and very plump woman bassoed a ditty, Jack Osterman yelled: "Okay for doorman at the Roxy."

Joan Bennett In Enright

By EDWARD W. GOSS

Joan Bennett apparently has the featured role in the Enright's current film, "Careless Lady." The movie-goer who is not too fussy about story development likely will be entertained by "Careless Lady." So will the fan who grants movie makers a full measure of latitude when it comes to using highly improbable situations.

The picture starts out sanely enough in a small town where a young girl, played by Joan, is in love with a nice boy who plays good golf. But the nice boy will have no truck with Joan for Joan lacks that glittering veneer of sophistication he finds so attractive. It is at this point the film runs amuck. The directors evidently decided the vehicle is running too slowly. They suddenly heave Joan aboard a train for New York. She is now on her way to become a sophisticate.

"Careless Lady" shoots into high gear. Joan does New York. There's a speakeasy raid, then a courtroom episode. Now the theater of action leaps to Paris. In Paris things happen in a big way. Joan, you see, is going about as the "Mrs." of a man she saw in New York. To put it mildly, complications arise. And the germ of another great love is sown.

After big doings in Paris, the scene races back to the little town where everything began so sanely. It is in this town "Careless Lady" is laid to rest. She certainly deserves it.

Opposite Joan Bennett plays John Boles. Both are unconvincing. They seem overwhelmed by the killing tempo of the affair.

FILMS -:- Here and There Among Stars Who Appear in Shadow -:- NOTES

'Sign of Cross' Ready for Camera

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, June 9.—Paramount will gamble heavily on Cecil B. De Mille's new religious drama, "The Sign of the Cross." In addition to constructing huge sets, they are assigning Fredric March, one of their ace stars, to play a young prefect of Rome in this story of early Christian martyrs.

March goes into the picture after he completes his role opposite Norma Shearer in Smilin' Through. At this writing the starting date is set for the early part of next month.

The Sign of the Cross will give De Mille a free hand to exercise his flair for massive production. Starting off with the burning of Rome while Nero [illegible]. Charles Laughton plays his celebrated sadistic accompaniment the film will offer such thrills as a chariot race, a battle, the inevitable orgy scenes at the Roman baths and at the sacrificial arena.

Happy to be at work again upon a favorite theme, De Mille is communicating his enthusiasm to the rest of the studio. One of the director's chief purposes, you detect, is to depict Christian martyrs for the first time as human beings instead of suicidal saints bent on finding someone to boil them in oil.

The Fox studio has changed its mind about Sally Eilers next picture. Instead of doing Walking Down Broadway with Jimmy Dunn, she'll be the big attraction in "Hat Check Girl," a story one is told about the wise women of the White Way.

Sidney Lanfield will be Sally's director and he expects to get under way shortly.

Meanwhile, Marion Nixon falls heir to Sally's part in Walking Down Broadway.

GOSSIPS SAY

Local theater programs carry full-page advertisements that the personal belongings of Clara Kimball Young will be sold at auction. . . . I have it from Tallulah Bankhead herself that James Cagney is her favorite screen actor. . . . El Brendel bought one of those folding rowing machines to take off a few excess pounds. But when he finally got the thing assembled he says he was too tired to use it. . . . Returning travelers from the South Seas report the natives were much disappointed in the salary Douglas Fairbanks gave them for extra work. The late F. W. Murnau paid off at the rate of $5 a day. Doug cut this down to a much smaller amount, though still larger than their regular wages. The natives couldn't figure it.

Red Stanley, who's making a hit at the Frolics Supper Club here, is married to Anita Garvin, Pretty brunet from the Hal Roach studios. . . . The M. G. M. golf tournament is now history. Most hectic foursome who ever teed off on a local course were Jimmy Durante, Charles (Chuck) Reisner, Joe Cohn and Eddie Brophy. All carried musical instruments, whistles, mouth organs, razzberry dinkuses, etc., to annoy the man swinging the club. Durante's 134 was low.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Rasputin, a tale of the reign of the Black Monk, who it is alleged dominated many of the affairs of Russia through influence over the late Czarina, has been selected as the story to serve as a vehicle for the three Barrymores, Lionel, Ethel and John, to name them in the order of a revue sons of some years back. The period is 1907-17, and the film will be Miss Barrymore's first talkie as well as the first picture to have all three members of this famed acting family together. The story is an unpublished one by Alfred Henschke Klaumd.

Among those introduced to George Cohan to the technique of Hollywood is Norman Taurog, whom George coached back in 1912 for a juvenile role in his comedy, Broadway Jones. In his Hollywood activities Mr. Cohan will both act and write.

Phil Baker, comedian and human accordion rack, is reported to have determined to become a producer, and one who won't be talked back to by his star, since he will be it. He has acquired from Vincent Youmans the necessary material in the way of words and tunes, prepared by some young fellows, Triver Oakland and Murray.

Leslie Howard, star of "The Animal Kingdom," will arrive in Hollywood next week to work with Norma Shearer and Fredric March in "Smilin' Through."

Vivienne Osmonte and that veteran of the films, Robert Warwick, support Warren William in "The Dark Horse," political satire for the screen. . . . Mitzi Green has been signed to do 18 short screen subjects for Radio Pictures in three years, in addition to being starred in a feature, "Little Orphan Annie." Samuel Shipman has been writing again and his work, "The Mighty Weak," shows his weakness for contradictory titles since he is the boy who wrote "Friendly Enemies" and "The Crooked Square."

Cornelia Otis Skinner having made America admit that she is a true daughter of Otis, pere, in her solo show, "The Wives of Henry VIII" will try to convince London too. . . . Boobs Vernon for years a star of those breezy-boy short comedies, will help Stuart Erwin in "Make Me a Star."

Elissa Landi Is Fulton Star for Week

Elissa Landi, supported by Ralph Bellamy and Neil Hamilton, in "The Woman In Room 13," will be the Fulton's screen feature for a week beginning today. Tomorrow evening only, the screen show will be halted for a lecture by the Rev. L. P. Powell, but the regular Fulton program will be resumed Saturday, and will be continued on the usual schedule.

Miss Hopkins, Gable Will Co-Star

Clark Gable and Miriam Hopkins will be starred by Paramount in a film version of Val Lewton's novel, "No Bed of Her Own." Gable has been borrowed from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer after completing his role with Norma Shearer in "Strange Interlude." Miss Hopkins is returning from a New York vacation to enact the role.

Johnsons Supervising 'Congorilla'

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson are now busy supervising the final cutting of "Congorilla," their latest picture, soon to be released by Fox. "Congorilla" is said to be a thrilling depiction of the Johnson's two-year safari in the land of the big apes and little people.

Dances

Jackie Morrow, aged 7 big years, does his dance in the "Pittsburgh On Parade" revue beginning tomorrow in the Stanley.

Screen Stars' Doubles Picked for Revue

In a contest held by Warner Brothers for the purpose of selecting "doubles" for screen stars to appear in the Pittsburgh On Parade revue that opens tomorrow in the Stanley, some remarkable resemblances to well-known screen players were disclosed. This was especially true of Dorothea Cunningham, selected as a prototype of Norma Shearer. Mary Workman, who looks a lot like Nancy Carroll, and Joseph Maher, who is the proverbial ringer for James Cagney.

Others selected by the judges, photoplay editors of Pittsburgh newspapers are as follows: Frank Patsue as Buddy Rogers, Margareitte Bowen as Lupe Velez, Marie Harig as Joan Bennett, Geraldine Tyhurst as Greta Garbo, Callahan and Henderson as Laurel and Hardy, Margaret McCrea as Janet Gaynor, Scott Turner as Richard Cromwell, Fay Carroll as Helen Twelvetrees, Betty O'Shea as Joan Crawford, George Hazlett as Joe E. Brown, Jack Richardson as Richard Barthelmess.

Nice Bad Girl In Sheridan

By WILLIAM PEARR

In "Nice Women," the new picture in the Sheridan Square, Sidney Fox plays a new role, that of a 17-year-old sophisticate. Heretofore Miss Fox has been seen as a sweet little gal whose innocence matches her accent. Allowing for the fact that the story of "Nice Women" is not the most realistic story ever filmed, Miss Fox does well enough. She is called upon to fall willingly into the arms of a 41-year-old millionaire, and this she does convincingly. And in the end Miss Fox confesses that her sophisticated surface wasn't skin deep, she is just an innocent little old-fashioned girl, after all.

The story deals with two sisters, Miss Fox and Frances Dee, and the millionaire broker, portrayed by Alan Mowbray. The sisters are daughters of poor parents, in fact their father works for the broker.

The audience appeared to enter into the spirit of the story's exaggerations. And the laughs and chuckles were more plentiful than usual for a picture which is not labeled comedy. And, after all, if the audience enjoys the entertainment, what else matters?

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By MARK HELLINGER

The Baby

IN ALL of Texas Guinan's floor shows there is always one girl who is called "the baby." The never-changing Texas leads the little lady upon the floor and says:

"Well, folks, this is the baby of the troupe. Is she cute? Turn around, honey. I want all you folks to give her a nice big hand because she'll never go anywhere without her mother, and her mother will go anywhere. All right, baby, go into your dance."

I've been watching Texas for nine or 10 years—yes, darling, it's as long as that—and I've seen at least nine or 10 "babies" in that time. Sometimes they're small kids, with blonde curls. Sometimes they're tall, with big, dark eyes. But always they are sweet. And you know by looking at them that they are very, very young.

What happens to those "babies"? Well, their fortunes vary. One of the more recent girls, Miss Florence Healy, is a feature of the "Hot-Cha" troupe. Another one, whose name escapes me, married an English title and is living very happily abroad. At any rate, she's living abroad. Another is the wife of the greatest comedian the world has ever known. Another—but wait a minute. I'm getting ahead of myself.

With your permission I'm going back to the first "baby" I ever met in one of Texas Guinan's spots. The place was the El Fey Club, the most successful of all modern cafes, and the time, as I said before, was some nine or 10 years ago.

Miss Guinan brought the child to the center of the floor. I sat in the rear of the place and looked on with big eyes.

"Folks," she said, "this is the baby of the troupe. Cute? I should say she is. Never goes anywhere without her mother, and her mother will go anywhere. Give her a nice big hand."

I think her name was Marion. I'm not sure, but it doesn't make any difference.

The kid danced. As rapid a dance as you'd want to see—and mighty hot, too. She looked extremely pretty to me at that moment, and it seems to me now that she was one of the most beautiful girlies I have ever seen. But that's always the way, isn't it? The lingering impression of a sweet memory is always more beautiful than any immediate reality. I don't know exactly what that means, but you'll have to admit that it sounds pretty good.

After the show, when I had the opportunity, I spoke to Marion.

"What do you intend to do with yourself?" was the stock question I fired at her. "What, I mean, are your ambitions?"

Her eyes sparkled with animation.

"I'm not going to stay in a cabaret, Mr. Reporter," she told me. "Not me. I'm going to be a great actress some day. Just you wait and see" . . .

Marion didn't linger very long as a member of the Guinan troupe. Maybe six months or so, which is practically no time at all to work for Texas. She was gone for several days before I missed her. And then I asked one of the other kids what had happened to her.

"Where's Marion?" I inquired. "Is she sick?"

"No," was the girl's reply, "but she probably will be. She eloped with some dopey chorus boy and nobody knows where they went. Guess they'll come back as soon as the money gives out."

"Eloped!" I exclaimed. "Why, that doesn't sound possible. Marion wasn't 16 year, was she?"

"Not by a long shot," replied the girl. "But what difference does that make? If you're brainless at 15, it's a pretty good bet you'll be brainless at 19. So it was bound to happen anyhow.

"The only one I feel sorry for is her mother. The old lady is a sickly dame, and she's around here every night crying her eyes out. They'll be carrying her into a hospital if that kid doesn't come back pretty soon. Too bad, isn't it?"

"Yep," I nodded. "Too bad."

I never did see Marion again until some three years had elapsed. But I had heard quite a bit about her. Her marriage to the chorus boy was annulled as soon as they returned. It didn't mean much one way or the other to either one.

They told me she had turned up in another and far cheaper cafe. Then later Marion finally hooked a live one.

This chap was a middle-aged bird who held a controlling interest in one of the largest manufacturing concerns in the East. He was married and he had a daughter who was older than Marion. But his daughter lived in Europe and his wife, of course, didn't understand him.

He must have been daffy about the former baby of the Guinan club, because he gave her everything, including a kitchen sink. I ran into them one night at the old Lido Club. Marion left her man snoring with his head upon the table and staggered over to me. And when she opened her mouth—brothers, what a change!

"Howya, kid?" she cried. "Haven't seen you in a month of whisky sours. What's the good word along the Broadway alley?"

We talked. Not too coherently—but a talk just the same. In the middle I tossed in my question.

"You once told me you were going to be a great actress. What ever happened to that ambition?"

She laughed. A loud, raucous laugh.

"Stop kidding a kidder," she said. "I'm through working for the rest of my life."

* * *

The night before last I drove out to Texas Guinan's new roadhouse on the Merrick road. What with her tours to Europe and her engagements in clubs in other cities, I haven't seen as much of Texas lately as I should have. I looked forward to the evening with keen anticipation.

I hadn't been sitting in the club more than 15 minutes when she led out a little girl with blonde curls.

"This folks," she said, "is the baby of the troupe. Never goes anywhere without her mother, and her mother will go anywhere. Give her a nice hand."

Later I was introduced to the baby. I smiled at her, closed my eyes—and went back those nine or 10 years. Then I spoke.

"You're cute," I said. "What do you intend to do with yourself?"

Her eyes sparkled.

"I'm going on the stage, Mr. Hellinger," she replied. "I want to be a great actress some day." . . .

WIDOW WINS MARKET ROW

Orders issued by the Bureau of City Property for the removal of the high backs of stands in the Allegheny Market House, to improve the view and ventilation, brought such a protest from Mrs. Annie Lippman, widow, Sheffield street, owner of Stand No. 51, the city will not disturb her.

Upon learning she was prepared to fight, E. J. Foley, chief clerk of the bureau, said the change would not be made and would not affect stand owners generally, if they object. Workmen have removed a number, but when Mrs. Lippman was informed the high back of her stand was to be removed she remarked:

"I won't let the city do it. I am a widow and taxpayer and have something to say. To pull down the high back of my stand would prevent me from displaying my canned foods and would put me out of business."

Woman Loses $1,920 While Trying on Hat

CHICAGO, June 9.—(INS.)—Charge it up to the feminine fondness for finery, if you will, but the fact remains that it cost Mrs. Gladys Handmacher exactly $1,920 to try on a new summer bonnet. In a millinery shop Mrs. Handmacher laid her purse down on a chair and glanced into a mirror to appraise the appearance of a hat. When she turned her head away from the mirror she discovered that two diamond rings and a wrist watch, valued at $1,880 and $40 in cash had vanished along with the purse.

Outstanding stars of the [illegible] world and a group of nationally known figures join in a gala broadcast tonight featuring addresses of [illegible] formation [illegible] greetings to the [illegible] speakers and [illegible] visitors who [illegible] the national [illegible] political [illegible] Chicago [illegible] this month. The [illegible] Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee in charge of all convention plans, is heard over an NBC network including WCAE at 11:15 p. m. Speakers to follow Mr. Hurley are Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, Julius Tannen, well-known stage comedian, is heard as master of ceremonies.

Among the radio notables representing the musical portion of the program are Jane Froman, contralto, the Knickerbockers, Gene Austin, Ilomay Bailey and Lee Sims.

Incidentally, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, appears as guest speaker during the cigaret dance hour on WCAE tonight at 10.

Tribute is paid to Richard Strauss, world famous composer and composer, who was born in Munich 68 years ago and who is now living in quiet retirement in Germany, during a special program over an NBC network including KDKA at 11:30. The program consists entirely of Strauss works and is presented by the NBC Concert Orchestra under the baton of Cesare Sodero. Deems Taylor acts as narrator.

Program Pointers

Inaugurating a new series of programs on WWSW tonight, Francis Ower, assisted by a corps of musicians, embarks on a summer tour via the ether waves of the pleasure resorts of Western Pennsylvania at 7:45 p. m. Tonight's excursion extends east to Bedford, making a loop to take in many of the Allegheny Mountain resorts on the return trip. . . . Ward Wilson, on KDKA at 7:15, imitates Phil Cook's "one man show." . . . The Star Dusters, harmony trio at WJAS, present another program at 7:15.

Mr. Owen

Radio fare for the dancers tonight on WCAE is brought by a group of outstanding orchestral favorites. During the cigaret hour at 10, Smith Ballew and his orchestra, playing from Valley Stream, L. I., and Charlie Agnew's Band, playing from Chicago, are heard. Immediately following is a quarter-hour featuring Russ Columbo's Orchestra, with Cab Calloway's Cotton Club Orchestra scheduled at 11:45.

The grand old maestro of the dance bands, B. A. Rolfe, celebrates his 1,200th broadcast with a special program over an NBC network, including KDKA tonight at 8:30. He has never missed a scheduled performance since his first radio program in May, 1926.

Georgie Price, on WJAS at 7:45, offers his impressions of Eddie Cantor.

Fan Fare

Catherine Field, NBC lyric soprano who opened a new series of afternoon recitals, "Summer Idyll," last Sunday, is a product of the Middle West. She was born in Caldwell, Kansas, and has lived most of her life in Texas and Oklahoma. She is heard regularly on the Musical Interlude program over an NBC network including WCAE every Thursday morning. . . . Grace Moore's favorite refreshing beverage while broadcasting is cold pineapple juice. . . . Rudy Vallee favors Western stories when he finds time for fiction. . . . James Melton's mother and three sisters are coming all the way from Florida to visit him at his Connecticut farm.

Miss Field

Hugo Mariani is a native of Montevideo, Uruguay. . . . Cesare Sodero hails from Naples, Italy. . . . Ben Bernie's real name is Benjamin Anerl. . . . Welcome Lewis is ill in bed.

Graham Harris finally gave up that idea of buying a plane to commute to his fishing camp in New Hampshire. After looking over the wares of seven salesmen he finally decided to drive 1,200 miles every week-end rather than fly with the nervous shock of wondering if he'd be able to park the thing without tearing off a couple of chimneys.

Victor Young has promised that if the radio audience will send him piano copies of songs written before 1915, he'll arrange them for his novelty orchestra and present them on programs with the Mills Brothers. . . . When the Boswells moved recently, some one forgot to notify the telephone company and they were cut off from the rest of the world for five days. . . . Johnny Marvin is retreating to his island in the St. Lawrence River for the summer. . . . George Olsen's locomotive signature really has a title. . . . It's "Going Home Blues."

Uncle Bob, Betty On WCAE Tonight

That hilarious pair, Uncle Bob and Betty, again come to the WCAE microphone to present a 15-minute program of incomparable fun when they read the Sun-Telegraph comic page tonight at 6.

News broadcasts by Louis I. Kaufman, Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, are given direct from the editorial rooms at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:30 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

Bargain tips galore are given to Pittsburgh shoppers when Peggy comes to the WCAE microphone for her "Peggy's Tips" broadcast tomorrow morning at 9.

YOUR OLD ICE BOX MAY BE WORTH $500 CASH

IF you own a Leonard ice box, no matter when purchased, do not fail to fill out the coupon below and mail it to us or to any dealer listed below.

Yours may prove to be the oldest Leonard anywhere in the country—and if so, the Leonard Refrigerator Company will pay you $500 cash for it.

There are no strings attached to this offer. The only condition is that owners must register their old Leonards by using the coupon provided for that purpose.

Offer Expires July 1, 1932

No coupons will be accepted after that date. If more than one Leonard of exactly the same age is reported, the right is reserved to purchase only the one in the best present condition.

THEN—THIS ADDED OFFER

If the oldest Leonard ice box in the Pittsburgh territory does not prove to be the oldest in the country, its owner will be given a beautiful new $250.00 Leonard Electric Refrigerator for it.

The oldest Leonard in the Pittsburgh territory is wanted for display purposes, to show the great advances that have been made in household refrigeration. Its owner will receive either $500 from the factory or an all-porcelain Leonard Electric of the latest model from J. A. Williams Co.

Only the Leonard Has the LEN-A-DOR—A touch of the toe and the door swings open

It costs you nothing to enter your old Leonard, and places you under no obligation. Fill out and mail the coupon today.

No more juggling of dishes—setting them down and picking them up to open your refrigerator door. Small wonder women consider the LEN-A-DOR the "handiest thing in the home."

Only the Leonard Electric offers so many EXTRA features for your convenience: the Chill-o-meter (with 8 freezing speeds), aluminum Sanitrays with permanent sanitary finish, porcelain cooling unit, handy egg basket, chrome-hardware, one-piece porcelain interior, and a score of others.

See the beautiful new Leonard Electric today. It is available in 9 portable models (3 all-porcelain) at new low prices which make it the greatest value in the industry.

Sharon Girl Takes High School Honors

SHARON, Pa., June 9.—Children of Mrs. Rose Mazzola carried off honors at Sharon High School. Miss Catharine Mazzola recently completed the four-year course in three years. Her brother, John, now a member of the faculty at St. Francis College, holds the record, having finished in two years in 1925. He completed the course at Grove City College in three years and was later a graduate at University of Pittsburgh.

Battle Rattlesnakes On Lincoln Highway

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 9.—Members of an automobile party consisting of Dorsey Kline, John Hall and Mrs. Jessie Hall, of Latrobe, fought a battle with two large rattlesnakes which blocked their progress as they walked on the Lincoln highway near the Somerset-Westmoreland County line. The snakes were killed by clubs. One measured 5 feet and had 10 rattles, and the other 3 feet 9 inches, with nine rattles.

Cardinal Dougherty Files Crash Suit

CAMDEN, N. J., June 9.—(INS.)—Suit for $38,000 in damages were on file today in the New Jersey Supreme Court, by Cardinal Dougherty and relatives against Albert Creighton of Atlantic City.

Cardinal Dougherty asks $5,000 for the damage done to his automobile through a collision with Creighton's automobile last October 1, near Elm, N. J.

Mercer Man Jailed For Running Rum

MERCER, Pa., June 9.—A story that he did not know what was in a box which Frank McGranahan, Greenville, had placed in his automobile when he picked McGranahan up for a ride didn't get E. R. Houck, Mercer, leniency before Judge J. A. McLaughry. Houck was sentenced to three months in jail for transporting liquor.

Class Graduated At Davis and Elkins

ELKINS, W. Va., June 9.—(AP.)—Dr. Robert L. Kelly, of New York, told the graduating class of Davis and Elkins College yesterday that "religion and education are the two vital factors which will bring us out of this era of depression once again into the road of progressive American life."

Fifty-one degrees and diplomas were presented by Dr. James E. Allen, president of the college.

Large, Painful Pimples Itched and Burned. Cuticura Healed.

"The trouble began with pimples on my forehead and later spread over my face and neck. They were large, red and painful. The pimples on my chin and around my mouth festered and itched and burned, and when I scratched them they spread and burned worse. My face looked badly, and the irritation used to wake me up at night.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in about forty days I was completely healed, after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and about a box and a half of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Samuel Veitch, Jr., 5326 Hadfield St., Phila., Pa., Jan. 12, 1931.

CONTRACT BRIDGE -:- How to Play and How to Win -:- By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Incorrect Bids Often Bring Severe Penalties

Nowadays almost all good contract players accept, without question, the principle of approaching the correct final declaration with low suit bids in order not only to make it easier for partner to respond, but also to learn the pitfalls that may exist in the hands of the opposing players. Those who still adhere to old-fashioned bidding methods and prefer to make the bidding a puzzle rather than a scientific production, are generally penalized as the hand [illegible] game at [illegible] clearly [illegible]

Travel Has Interested Mankind From Earliest Times, Says Fay King

TRAVEL LIGHT. DON'T DRAG ALONG A LOT OF LUGGAGE YOU CAN BUY AS YOU GO

SHIPS AND TRAINS PROVIDE EVERY COMFORT AND ONE HAS RELAXATION AND INTEREST EVERY MILE OF THE WAY
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

From the earliest times travel has interested mankind.

The urge to see what is over the mountain or across the lake leads the primitive man away from his cave.

Modes of travel have reached a point of perfection and comfort never dreamed of by those remote adventurers who braved the land or sea to discover the unknown.

Trains and liners now afford all the conveniences of a moving hotel, and the family car can cover thousands of miles on smooth, beautiful highways.

It is good to move about a bit and see other parts of one's country if one cannot afford to go to the far places of the world.

And even the shortest journey can be a high adventure if one is observing.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Family Gathering

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Mother has two sons, for example, A and B. A is married and B is to be married. Mother is giving a Sunday dinner for the family to meet B's fiancee's parents, sisters and brother. Should Mother invite A's mother-in-law and father-in-law, or isn't it necessary?

A lives with his in-laws. Does that make a difference? A's parents and in-laws are on friendly terms. I. H.

It would be the way of hospitality and graciousness for the mother of A and B to include A's mother-in-law and father-in-law in this family gathering, especially since A lives with his in-laws.

Signet Ring

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it proper for a man to give a girl a hope chest before becoming engaged, although they hope to be before long?

2. Is it proper to put the first initial or the last on a signet ring when giving it as a gift to the opposite sex? K.

1. This is too personal a present for a man to give to a girl to whom he is not engaged. . . . it would be better for him to wait to give this gift when the hope comes true.

2. It is best to use the two or three initials, either as initials or designed into a monogram. If only one initial is to be used, it should be the last one.

Maid of Honor

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Will you please tell me if it is correct for a maid of honor to wear a satin dress to a wedding the last of June? It is going to be a small church affair. B.

Yes

Household Hints

A tablespoonful of vinegar poured on a hot shovel and carried through the house will take away all cooking odors and make the air sweet.

A palatable and hygienic drink can be made easily by merely straining a can of tomatoes through a sieve. Iced tomato juice offers a pleasant change from the regular fruit juice breakfast menu. A little salt may be added to taste, and if the juice is being served as an appetizer with luncheon or dinner, a dash of Worcestershire sauce gives it an added piquant tang.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

So much makeup and no more can the feminine phiz get away with. If it carries the velvety olive calcimine, the raspberry cheek glow, and cherry lips, the blue or gray eyeshadows should not be included. Delete the factory blushes and the shadows can be laid on deftly; they produce the mysterious, heavy-lidded look that some of the vampy femmes think is simply gorgeous. Eye shadows come in two forms, creamy and compact. Oily ones provide a glisten that has a brightening effect upon soul lamps. That's what the sisterhood is after.

Here's a simple and effective exercise for reducing large thighs. Lie on the floor on the back, lift the right knee, clasp hands about it, lift upper part of body and touch forehead to knee. If you can't do it, you can know for sure and certain that it is high time for a slimming session. Ten minutes of this exercise night and morning will bring results.

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

Should Mother Live With Her Newly Wed Son?

Does it pay to live with your mother-in-law? Mary wants to know.

Jack assures her mamma will be a treat, even though the rest of the family can't get along with her and scoot when they see her coming.

"But you are different, dear," he urges fondly. "I know you can get along with her all right!" But still Mary is doubtful.

"If we don't have her with us, Jack will be unhappy," she wails. "So there's the deadlock. How am I going to get around it?"

DEPENDENT ON SON

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I have a very serious problem, and I would very much appreciate your advice. I know it will be sound, and I just can't seem to solve the problem myself.

"I am engaged to a young man whom I love very dearly. He is a fine chap and very good to me. Now we have an understanding that when we are married we will give his mother a home with us.

"She is entirely dependent on him and Jack (that is his name) dearly loves her. I admire him for this, of course, but I will say that none of her present 'in-laws' seem able to get along with her, even though she doesn't live with any of them.

"That part frightens me. I am willing myself to meet her more than half way, and to treat her just as I would treat my own mother, but I know that she has a very selfish disposition, wherever any of her boys are concerned. She can never see their faults, or at least she won't admit it if she does.

"So I know that if there ever were an argument between Jack and me, or even the littlest misunderstanding, I would always be to blame in her opinion.

"Now don't misunderstand me. When I say things like this I do not say them because I have a chip on my shoulder, but because I know her disposition, and I know what would happen.

"On the other hand, if Jack [illegible] cousin, have his mother with us, it would break his heart, or [illegible] gives her up. But I can't see any object in getting married if I can't be happy. I really haven't a bad disposition myself. I get along well with people in the family and out, and I would try very hard to love her and make her love me. But if that should be impossible, then what?

"I don't want to ruin Jack's life and his own, but if we don't have her his would be ruined, and if we do have her and we don't get along, then my life will be ruined.

"I do want our marriage to be a success. You will probably tell me to talk this all over with Jack. I have, and he refuses to believe that I couldn't get along with her. He says I am 'different.' But it seems to me that that very remark proves that he thinks whoever else didn't get along with her was at fault, not his mother.

"What do you think of it? Should I take the chance?

"MARY."

SHOULD BE ALONE

I'd hesitate a long time before I took it, my dear. And I'm not saying that because you believe this woman would be hard to get along with, but because all young married people should be alone, to work out their problems for and by themselves. Those problems are plenty without having a peevish in-law in addition.

As for Jack's life being ruined if you don't have mamma live with you, it won't. Not if he's a grown man and able to realize his adult responsibilities as a man and a husband. If he isn't, then he would be a pretty poor bet as a husband, anyway.

On the other hand, if you do have her, the chances are large that both your lives will be messed up, and your marriage wrecked.

That's my answer to Mary, stranger. What's yours?

Did you ever have Mary's problem? If you did, how did you handle it, and how did it work out?

Dad Should Be Son's Pal

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

A father complained bitterly that he didn't seem to have any influence or make any impression on his adolescent son when he talked long and earnestly with him over some infraction of school rules. The son was polite but bored, listened to his dad's words while apparently thinking of something else, said he'd try to not let it happen again, and scuttered out of the room.

"I put everything I had into that talk," said the father, "but somehow I feel that we never made contact for a minute."

Probably many fathers have experienced the same discouraging feeling. There is a reason for it in this case, and perhaps in the cases of other fathers.

This dad failed to get to the boy's inner consciousness because it was the only man-to-man contact they had made for long years, and wouldn't have been tried then if the lad had not gotten into difficulty.

A father can't expect to have his son open his heart to him, to let down the barriers in an uncomfortable situation, if he's never had the chance to contact his father in a happy situation.

In so many families father is saved as a sort of inquisitional feature to be used when punishment is needed, but never brought into action for fun, for good times, for excursions with his growing man-child.

The father who, with his son, loads fishing tackle into the old car and taunts away to wade streams with the boy for an afternoon will be able to get to the secret place of the lad's heart when the boy needs him, when trouble looms black on the horizon. The boy who has a pal in his dad probably won't get into much trouble to begin with.

But the father who thinks he can stand aloof from his boy at all times, except when a lecture is needed, won't make much impression with his preaching or scolding no matter how carefully he chooses his words or how wise they may be.

SHE DIDN'T KNOW

A SOAP that is hard on HANDS is hard on CLOTHES

She's through with strong soaps. When little Tommy's new blouses began to "go" long before they should, she said "never again."

"I'm using Chipso now," she says.

"And why didn't I use it before?" she's asking. "I should have known I was taking a big risk with that granulated soap. Why, my hands roughened up in two days when I tried using it for dishes. No wonder it was hard on my clothes. I'll use Chipso from now on."

She's right. Chipso washes just as fast—it gets your clothes just as white—as strong granulated soap or cheap soap chips. But Chipso contains no free lye—never rots fabrics.

Why, you can use Chipso on your fine silk underwear and your sheer silk stockings with perfect safety. Chipso actually preserves the luster and color of silks. It keeps woolens soft and fluffy. And when you wash dishes with Chipso, your hands stay smooth.

So it's very easy to see why Chipso keeps cottons and linens new and strong. When you use Chipso, all your clothes wear longer.

You ought to know these startling facts about cheap chips. Chipso is a real bargain—very different from the cheap soap chips which have recently appeared in the stores. These cheap soap chips cannot give you Chipso's help and safety. Too often they contain unpurified fats which are hard to rinse out . . . free lye which weakens and rots materials . . . excess water which merely increases the weight . . . lumps which are hard to dissolve . . . even dirt from unsanitary manufacturing methods.

Chipso's bigger suds do more work—so they save you rubbing. Chipso goes farther. Chipso saves your clothes and your hands. Be sure you get genuine Chipso . . . it comes in the big blue box with the yellow stripe.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Omitting Vacation Not Economy for Nervous People

"Nerve fatigue" is a term used to describe a run down condition of the nervous system. It is often incorrectly used by the layman to describe a condition of simple nervousness, which in this case may or may not be a symptom of nerve fatigue.

Dr. Copeland

The body performs its daily work by reason of energy derived chiefly from carbohydrates or starches in the diet. This energy material is stored in the muscles and liver in the form of a substance called glycogen, which is released for active work by nerve impulses sent to the muscles and liver. Work can be accomplished only by the "burning up" of glycogen. Labor too long continued will make excessive demands upon the nerve impulses, and nerve exhaustion will result.

Fortunately, ordinary nerve fatigue can be relieved by short periods of rest, but complete nerve exhaustion requires several months or longer for recovery. Indeed, the human body can survive much longer without food than it can without rest or sleep.

Nerve fatigue can develop into a serious condition, the mechanism of the body becoming seriously disturbed. Indigestion, inflammation of the large intestines, constipation, insomnia and constitutional disease often are caused by prolonged nerve fatigue. The sufferer from this condition also is usually in a state of fear. He worries, is anxious and cannot carry on with his daily work.

Nerve fatigue is often overlooked and neglected. Persistent tired feeling, headache, restlessness and dull and vague pains are attributed to excessive work, but too often nothing is done about them.

These signs should be given immediate attention. A visit should be made to a physician, so that by thorough examination he can discover the physical status of the body. Special tests are to determine the presence or absence of nerve fatigue. After this examination the diet can be regulated and, if necessary, certain treatments given.

Rest is often the only treatment necessary to restore health, and is best prescribed in the form of a vacation. A vacation is a health investment, and it is often more economical to take a vacation than be forced to prolonged rest because of physical exhaustion.

In good health we live longest and enjoy ourselves most, and this desirable state can exist only when we give the body the necessary care and rest. Be sure to get six to eight hours of sleep every day and that your diet is simple but nutritious. It should contain an abundance of fresh vegetables, fruits, milk, cream butter and eggs. Whenever possible get out of doors and relax in the sun.

If you are worried, do not feel up to par, are easily irritated or apprehensive and tired, I beg of you not to disregard these signs. The best thing is to consult with your physician.

Answers to Health Queries

Miss Margaret R. Q.—What causes a pain in the lower right side?

A.—This may be due to formation of gas, indigestion or constipation. It would be wise to have an examination by your doctor.

* * *

George A. Q.—What causes itching of the body and what do you advise?

A.—This may be due to constipation or some intestinal disturbance. Try to locate the cause and remove if possible. Send self-addressed stamped envelope for full particulars and repeat your question.

* * *

Mrs. L. E. S. Q.—What causes my heart to beat fast, especially when I retire at night?

A.—This may be due to nervousness. It would be wise to have your heart examined and follow your doctor's advice.

* * *

D. C. P. Q.—At what age does one stop growing?

A.—Most people grow until they are 21.

* * *

J. M. N. S. Q.—What do you advise for poor circulation?

PICNIC TROLLEY CRASH INJURING 20 PROBED

POLITICS

Chairmanship of Delegate Committee Important

By MARK SHIELDS

Gen. Edward Martin, Republican State Chairman, will select a substitute for Senator David A. Reed as chairman of the select committee of five Pennsylvania delegates to report to the entire caucus of 75 recommendations on controversial matters such as prohibition.

Mr. Shields

Reed's inability to attend the convention raises an intense interest as to whether the man selected in his place will be a dry or one opposing the present prohibition system. If he is the former, the committee will recommend that the caucus do no more than favor resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment. If the latter, in addition to a recommendation for resubmission there will be a condemnation of prohibition urged for incorporation in the national platform.

The inclinations of the fifth man are of such importance because the remaining four members of the committee are equally divided.

Ultimately the subject must be fought out in the caucus, with those favoring a repudiation of prohibition a unit on the principle, but differing in the nature of language they would use, which may mean a consideration of more than one resolution on the subject. The only resolution now before the sub-committee is that of Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, but there will be more.

It is improbable the name of the fifth man on the committee will be made public until the delegates reach Chicago, though Martin is understood already to have made several suggestions to other state leaders for their consideration.

* * *

Little Opportunity To Evade Issue

There will be little chance for weasling in the Pennsylvania delegation, though some will try it. There will be a straight-out decision on whether the majority believe prohibition good or bad, for the question will come before the delegates in that form. It will be difficult to hide behind any party regularity screen.

Mayor Kline, for some time considering a trip to the convention, is understood to have definitely abandoned the idea. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern is another who toyed with the thought for some time, but found his official duties here paramount.

Of the outstanding leaders, regular and independent, in Pittsburgh politics, it is probable Senator James J. Coyne will be the only one at the convention scene. Coyne has no official role, but he has been functioning recently as an unofficial observer in state affairs.

It will be recalled that he went to the Republican State Committee meeting, and was active in the background. Previously he had participated in the formation of a state slate. He was officially a member of the organization conference which considered a legislative program which might be offered Gov. Pinchot as an inducement to call a special session.

It is no secret that state committee chiefs and some eastern leaders have been looking on Coyne as a figure of increasing stature and have been taking him more and more within the inner circle. At Chicago the Senator will have the opportunity to promote these contacts for whatever use—if any—he ultimately wishes to employ them.

There are those who believe this growing recognition of Coyne by other leaders in the state has played a part in the renewed activity of the Mayor in local organization affairs. He stepped out in both the ward chairmanship and county committee elections and demonstrated to anyone who wished to note—here or elsewhere in the state—that he still was the big gun of local affairs.

* * *

Kline's Third Term Ambition Doubted

Here and there is to be found a political observer who believes reports that the Mayor is considering being a third-term mayoralty candidate are a part of the programe to keep in line any lieutenants who may grow optimistic about their own power.

That the Mayor actually intends to be a candidate is taken with a grain of salt. But he most positively wishes to have a hand in the selection of the next executive of this municipality. If he can keep some of the diligent political planners guessing, ultimately they will have to come to him, lay their cards on the table, and ask his suggestions. That is, they will have to do that unless they wish to chance a fight with the weight of the city administration, and few are the men in organized politics in Pittsburgh who would care for that battle, unless supported by worth-while independent elements.

When the time comes for the card laying the Mayor will be in a position to adopt his own course, either to run himself or to designate a preference among two or three names offered him, the owners of which would have a natural gratitude for favors rendered.

That, perhaps, is the course the Mayor will adopt. Meanwhile, he lets it be known he is the kingfish, no matter how much surface activity and potency others in the organization may exhibit.

PARK SPAN JOB EXTRAVAGANCE DENIED

Reppert Defends $63,000 Repairs as Economy, But McArdle Pushes Attack

Expenditure of $63,000 for repairs to the Pantner Hollow Bridge in Schenley Park will save $575,000 for a new span 10 or 15 years hence, Public Works Engineer Charles M. Reppert had declared today, defending his department against charges of extravagance. The charges were made by Councilman P. J. McArdle who contended spending of $63,000 for new plates and railings was "grossly extravagant."

Department engineers, including Reppert, Ross M. Riegel and Henry Johnston, told Council the spending of $63,000 at the present time would give the city a span which would last at least 30 years. If the repairs were ignored a complete new superstructure would be necessary in 10 or 15 years, they said.

Johnson revealed an investigation of the bridge disclosed railings along sidewalks had only a tensile strength of 40 pounds per lineal foot.

Under grilling from McArdle, Johnston and Riegel admitted there was no immediate danger of buckling, should repair work be neglected, but asserted that the job now was "most economical."

Pointing out the span was built in 1896, Reppert said it was erected for horses and buggies, but now had to be strengthened to support automobile traffic.

McArdle's contention was that a coat of paint would have serviced the span for several years and the city would have saved more than $60,000. Engineers ridiculed this argument.

TRAFFIC DEATH RATE HERE 10TH

Pittsburgh, with a traffic death rate of 22 persons per 100,000 population, had the tenth highest rate among cities its size during the first four months of the National Traffic Safety Contest, while Boston, with a rate of 10.7 held the lead, with New York, Buffalo and Milwaukee following, according to a summary by the National Safety Council, sponsors of the contest.

Pittsburgh was one of the seven in the contest to show an improvement over last year. During the first four months of this year, 51 lives were taken in traffic, while the toll in that period of 1931 was 50.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 9.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

"The Bankers' Institute" (who call themselves the educational end of banking are holding a big convention out here. Every one of 'em carries American Express money orders, there is not a check book in a car load. I hope they go back by Canada and see how it is that Canada has only had one bank failure in ten years. The idea evidently is not copyrighted. But we can't alibi all our ills by just knocking the old banker. First he loaned the money, then the people all at once wanted it back, and he didn't have it, now he's got it again, and is afraid to loan it, so the poor devil doesn't know what to do. Yours, WILL.

CALLS BURGESS, CONSTABLES INTO COURT

Peace Officers Directed to Co-operate After Letters Reveal Violations of Law

Instructions to "cleanup" Braddock were issued by Judge William H. McNaugher to the burgess, police and constables. The latter, in their quarterly returns, had reported no law violations, and were sent back to investigate written complaints received by the court. They confirmed liquor sales in a half dozen places and were ordered to make informations. Judge McNaugher told them to co-operate with Burgess James Rose, who also had been summoned, and with the police, saying to the constables:

"Hereafter make a complete investigation before reporting there are no law violations. I have just received additional complaints which will be turned over to you. The burgess, police, and constables must get together and clean up Braddock."

The constables are Michael Mehalic, of the First Ward, also police chief; Joseph Slane, Second Ward, and Emmett Keough, Third Ward.

STRIKE DELAYS SCHOOL JOBS

Work on the Arsenal High School and the Mifflin school, Mifflin place, is being held up by a jurisdictional dispute between carpenters and cement finishers on who shall lay the mastic tile floor.

The carpenters are doing the work, and the cement finishers are on strike at the two schools and have taken several other trades off the jobs in sympathy.

Authorities at the board of education are concerned over the dispute, as it may delay the opening of the Mifflin school, scheduled in the fall. The same labor difficulty is anticipated when the floor work is reached at the Prospect school.

Townsend's Hotel Yields Beer in Raid

Historic Obey Hotel, 1327 Steuben street, yielded 107 bottles of beer, federal prohibition agents said today, following a raid there late yesterday, the second within six months. Horace Townsend, former city employe, is reputed owner of the building, agents said. Grace Reilly, alleged proprietress, was arrested.

The raid followed a governmental inspection of the premises preparatory to a padlock hearing in United States Court next Tuesday as the outgrowth of the previous raid. In it Townsend, who claimed he was ill at the time, and Samuel Esplen were arrested.

Cyrus A. Davis, Pittsburgh attorney, will make his second flight over the city at noon Saturday in behalf of the Salvation Army. He will be accompanied by Miss Isabelle Patterson, a writer, who will throw paper "bombs" from the plane.

The flight will be a part of the Red Shield Day effort of the Army, set as the final curtain of the present drive for $112,500. Several hundred women and girls recruited from social and civic groups under the direction of Mrs. D. Edwin Miller will sentinel all the principal corners conducting the sale of the Army's red shields.

New Castle Bankers To View 3 Suspects

Charged with carrying concealed weapons and larceny of an automobile, Edward Humrey, 34, of Miltenberger street; Vincent Ruggen, 1413 Fifth avenue, and John Ralko, 1305 Caldwell street were held for court last night by Justice of the Peace Thomas J. Johnson of Munhall. Officials of the Mahoning Trust Company, New Castle, believing the suspects may have participated in the $23,000 holdup there, will view the men, police said.

HUSBAND FILES BALM SUIT

Charging alienation of his wife's affections, R. R. Ward filed suit against R. B. Clifford in Common Pleas Court, seeking $25,000 damages. A capias, with $1,000 bond, was granted against Clifford by Judge S. J. Snee.

Ward married Pauline Thompson November 1, 1924. In 1931, he declared, he and Clifford became partners in a business enterprise located at 2960 Merwyn avenue, the Ward residence, and last December 20 Clifford also took up his residence there.

Ward charged that Clifford took Mrs. Ward daily on automobile trips and that they spent evenings together and took a trip of three days in March. He declared he left the home April 1 and that April 18 Mrs. Ward moved to her mother's home at 2957 Merwyn avenue, Clifford later moving to the same house.

180 Rush for Exits as Car Leaves Rails, Hits Girder; Six Remain in Hospitals

Officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company today began an investigation into the cause of the street car accident in West Carson street, near Steuben street, which resulted in injury to more than 20 persons returning from the picnic of Westlake School, Elliot, last night. The major accidents committee of the company will sit tomorrow to conduct its formal inquiry.

One hundred and eighty persons, mostly women and children, riding in the car and trailer, were hurled from their seats when the street car jumped the track and crashed against an iron girder of a railroad overhead. Many of the children and women were trampled in the rush for the doors and windows by the panic-stricken picnickers.

Helen Kauzlaskas

SIX IN HOSPITAL

Six of the injured are still in the hospital. They are:

Marie Ciesielski, 16, of 108 Steuben street; Mrs. Viola Krawczyk, 40, of 48 Harker street; Mrs. Clara Robinson, 32, Negro, of 47 Steuben street; Mrs. Edna Spence, 31, of 1102 Erwin street; Mrs. Mary Sailor, 25, Negro, of 51 Steuben street, and Thomas A. Brandon, 14, Negro, of 256 Banley street.

Others treated at hospitals were Mrs. Victoria Hodnicka, 43, of 503 Seden way; Mrs. M. Sterakowski, 49, of Herndon street; Helen Kauzlaskas, 9, of 34 Elliott street; Catherine McDonald, 12, of 137 Herndon street; Mrs. Robinson's husband, James Robinson, 34, and their three children, Dorothy, 11; Willa May, 2, and Dolores, 1; Mrs. Spence's husband, Robert, 31, and their daughter, Edna May, 5; Mrs. Hattie Parks, 27, Negro, of 51 Steuben street; Bertha Reffert, 14, of 207 Herndon street; Edward Ciesielski, 14, of 108 Steuben street; Florence Turill, 14, of 909 Wymore street and Mae Cooke, 14, of 426 Union avenue, Ingram.

POLICE ESTIMATE

Police said the list of injured probably will exceed 20. Many of the less seriously injured made for home on foot before their names could be obtained.

Edward Ciesielski

One of the passengers in the car told police the brakes had failed to work when the motorman attempted to stop the car. The motorman, David Lavis, 30, of 631 Marshall avenue, declined to comment.

It required police and the emergency crew of the railways company more than 15 minutes to extricate a Negro boy who was caught in the wreckage in the front of the trailer. He was freed with crowbars.

Face on Barroom Floor Gets First Smile in Years

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

First effects of Mr. Rockefeller's ultimatum on the nation-at-large:

The face on the barroom floor smiled for the first time in twelve years.

Carrie Nation's hatchet flew off the handle.

The dry fanatics took that foot off the pulse of the nation.

Ten thousand muscular enforcement agents organized a bonus march to oblivion.

The shock was so terrific that the temperance lecturers sobered up.

The Anti-Saloon League has sunk its boat rather than have it turn with the tide.

And the manufacturers of Ginger Jake denounce Mr. Rockefeller's broadcast as unfair to organized corruption.

203 GRADUATE AT DUQUESNE

The need of the United States today is leadership the Most Rev. Francis C. Kelley, bishop of Oklahoma City, told 203 members of the Duquesne graduating class last night at commencement exercises in Memorial Hall, he said:

"We who have boasted we were making leaders find ourselves in need of leadership. We who thought we were raising up a multitude of educated men to solve all our problems, find it impossible to solve the problem of our daily bread."

Following the academic procession of 350 faculty members and graduates the Most Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Pittsburgh diocese and chancellor of the college, gave the invocation. President J. J. Callahan presided and introduced Bishop Kelley.

Honorary degrees of doctor of laws were conferred on Bishop Kelley and Dr. James N. Rule, superintendent of public instruction for Pennsylvania. Brother G. Lucian McGurk received the honorary degree of doctor of science.

Mt. Aloysius Prayer Week Opens June 17

The annual week-end of recollection and prayer, a feature of the activities of Mt. Aloysius Academy, Cresson, will be held June 17-20. The exercises will be conducted by the Rev. Casimir. The commencement will be held Sunday morning. High mass will be celebrated in the academy chapel, in the presence of the Most Rev. Dr. John Joseph McCort, with the Rev. Charles H. Hipp, chaplain, celebrant.

Civic Club to Name Officers Tomorrow

Officers will be elected at the annual meeting of the Civic Club of Allegheny County following a luncheon in the William Penn Hotel at 12:15 p. m. tomorrow. These include a president, three vice presidents, treasurer and secretary. A nominating committee consisting of Frank Wilbur Main, E. B. Lee and Theodore F. Smith has suggested names of 25 members for the various offices.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If the bile is not flowing freely, your food don't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

PARADE OF DEGREE WINNERS OF DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY TO HEAR BISHOP F. C. KELLEY

Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of education; Brother G. Lucian McGurk, of La Salle College, and 203 graduates were given degrees last night by Dr. J. J. Callahan, president. Bishop Kelley made the commencement address.

BISHOP KELLEY

BISHOP KELLEY URGES 'LIBERTY'

The return of personal liberty, but not beer, was advocated in an interview by the Most Rev. Francis C. Kelley, bishop of Oklahoma, speaker at the commencement exercises of Duquesne University. Asked to comment on the prohibition question in the light of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s expression in favor of repeal, Bishop Kelley said:

"I would not say give us back beer, but I would say give us back the personal liberty that has been taken away.

"I believe as Jefferson did, that too much law leads to no law.

"If Rockefeller has carefully considered the question and now feels that he is opposed to prohibition, that is his privilege. People should have a perfect right to say what they think."

Award for Land Made Against City

A verdict of $33,500 damages against the city in favor of W. E. Moore & Co., for property at Thirty-third street and the Allegheny River taken for sewer construction several years ago, was found by a jury in Common Pleas Court. Viewers allowed $8,000 and the company claimed $100,000.

DO YOU INHALE?

Silence may be golden

. . . but is that why other cigarette advertising is generally silent on this question?

WHEN the truth hurts—it's only natural to avoid the subject! Inhaling has long been an "untouchable" topic in cigarette advertising. And no wonder! In every tobacco leaf—even the finest, the mildest—nature hides certain impurities which, when not removed, are unkind to delicate membranes!

And since, knowingly or unknowingly, every smoker inhales some part of the smoke from his or her cigarette, Lucky Strike developed that great scientific process which removes certain impurities. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

Do you inhale? More than 20,000 physicians, after Luckies had been furnished them for tests, basing their opinions on their smoking experience, stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

GAS DIVERSION REPORT SENT TO PARK

District Attorney Studies County Material Misuse Charge for Possible Action

The report on county gasoline handled through private accounts of politicians was to go to District Attorney Andrew T. Park today for his study and for whatever action he may see fit to take.

The report, made public yesterday by M. C. Conick, auditor for Main & Co., showed that in four years more than 53,200 gallons of gasoline, costing the taxpayers $7,986, were diverted to private accounts of six county employes, and the gasoline delivered to them, to their families, friends or to other county employes.

METHOD OF PAYMENT

The gasoline was furnished by the Peoples Service Company. It was paid for, in numerous cases, before it was received, the auditors' report states. The county paid for the gasoline in the private accounts by making overpayments on its regular purchases, according to the auditors.

The private accounts and their volume in the last four years were according to the report: William H. Ziefel, former chief clerk to County Commissioners, $2,497.15; J. F. Routley, former assistant chief clerk to County Commissioners, $2,416; E. M. Kenna, former road commissioner, $1,709; C. C. Benz, chief clerk, County Purchasing Department, $621; C. W. Doherty, of the Bureau of Accounts and Statistics, $608, and John J. Gallagher, assistant in purchasing department, $133.

Routley's account and a check on the license numbers of cars receiving the gasoline showed that deliveries were made to a number of members of the Armstrong family, including Dorothy and William Armstrong and Mrs. Ethel Armstrong, of 919 Carson street, and Joseph G. Armstrong, of 2651 Pioneer avenue.

DISTRIBUTION OF GAS

Roy E. Walters, former secretary to Armstrong, received gasoline on both the Routley and Ziefel accounts. E. M. Kenna, in addition to gasoline used in a county car, received gasoline for his personal car under the Ziefel account and under his own account.

Substantial quantities of gasoline were delivered to both Mrs. Ziefel and Mrs. Routley under their husband's accounts.

The report quotes E. E. Harris, manager of the Peoples Service Company, to the effect that credits were applied to the private accounts under instructions received from H. B. Allen, former superintendent of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, in the case of the Ziefel account.

The instructions came from Benz in regard to his own account, that of Routley and a part of that of Kenna, the report stated. Benz, however, yesterday denied he issued instructions to anyone regarding the crediting of the gasoline.

Doherty, according to the report, issued instructions to Harris regarding his own account and that of Kenna and Gallagher.

SOCIETY HOMES HERE LOOTED

The burglar blamed for theft of a $5,000 antique brooch from the home of E. V. Babcock, former County Commissioner, recently, was believed to have entered the home of Charles Lockhart, 1043 South Negley avenue, last night, and to have obtained jewelry valued at $1,500.

Entrance was gained by forcing open a rear door. Homes of other prominent residents of the East End have been entered, detectives believe, by the same prowler. Detectives were detailed to investigate.

GUARD SHOT, MAN HELD

Seeking to disarm a Negro carrying a double-barrel shotgun because he thought he was cheated in a dice game, David Dalton, 38, a Pittsburgh Coal Company policeman at Warden mine, near Blythedale, was shot in the ankle and hip last night.

Four hours later, Althronia Brown, 32, a Negro miner, was arrested in his home, accused of the shooting.

Dalton was taken to Mercy Hospital, where his condition was said to be fair.

Witnesses said Dalton sought to disarm the Negro and was shot in the ankle. Backing away, Dalton's assailant is said to have reloaded the gun and fired at Dalton, the charge of buckshot entering his hip.

Covering witnesses with the gun, Brown backed away and fled into the woods.

BANKS SLOWLY LIFT PRESSURE ON BUSINESS

Recent Figures Indicate Major Change in Trend; End of Deflation Seen

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, June 9.

The pressure on business from banking sources is being gradually relaxed.

In recent banking statistics there have been preliminary indications of what may turn out to be a major change in trend.

Some [illegible] banking officials have expressed the opinion that perhaps the country is approximately at the end of the period of deflation. Before the turning point can be accepted as [illegible] it will of course be necessary to re-examine the current banking situation from the perspective of greater distance.

Mr. Rukeyser

LOANS INCREASE

One [illegible] has declined satisfaction from the fact that since April 13 there has been a decline of only $42,000,000 in member bank loans and investments. A setback of only .4 of 1 per cent compared with average weekly declines of $100,000,000 in the period September 30, 1931, to April 13, 1932. Moreover, since March 23 the total deposits of member banks have risen by $313,000,000.

In the last week there was a gain of $42,000,000 in loans, the first increase since November and the sixth since the beginning of 1931.

B. H. Beckhart, Columbia University authority on the New York money market, has sailed for Europe, where he will spend a year studying Old World money market technique. Before leaving he told me that he thought the tendency to look upon banks as magic institutions which can create wealth was a fallacy. The banks, he said, should get back to the fundamental basis of financing trade.

NEW PLAN TRIED

This column has frequently commented on the decline in Wall street merchandising, which, even in fair-weather days, was unscientific and sporadic. A new conception of security merchandising has recently been exploited. Taking advantage of low prices of stocks and of the opportunity to make differential between the cost of buying round lots on the Stock Exchange and the cost to the public of odd lots (less than 100 shares), vendors are offering to the public a package of low-priced stocks, representing a diversified interest in depressed American corporations.

Superior to marginal speculation, this method eliminates short-term hazards and leaves only the business risk as to whether the individual corporations can stage comebacks. Of course, the scheme is legitimate only if handled by reputable security merchants. One vendor told me that prevailing low prices enable distributors to use the selling technique which formerly was applied only to questionable promotions. He thought that distress prices created an opportunity to promote interest in shares of long-established corporations. Talk about price comparisons! One bundle of assorted stocks, now quoted at $116, sold for as high as $1,733 in 1929.

DISTRESS PRICES

The book value of these stocks at the end of the last calendar year was in excess of $491. At recent prices, this portfolio was selling ex-enthusiasm. Much of the water—and perhaps a good deal more than water—has already been squeezed out. Whether the courageous buyers of representative securities at prevailing low prices are wiser than the nervous sellers will of course depend on the capacity of the country for economic recovery in the reasonably near-term future.

Recent convulsions in the security markets have greatly added to the purchasing power of venturesome capital. Of course the return on any investments except those of the highest grade, such as United States government obligations, represents besides the pure interest rate a premium for the additional risk involved. A recent survey disclosed that 43 preferred shares which appear to be currently earning their dividends, sold at prices to yield between 6 and 26.7 per cent. In normal times, many of these sold at prices to yield 5 per cent. Distress prices reflect not only prevailing business conditions, but also a decline in the availability of the courage and the capital required to hold securities entailing risk.

Light Magnates and Financial Leaders Regain Optimism

By B. C. FORBES

ATLANTIC CITY, June 9.

A NEW SPIRIT, a spirit of hopefulness, a forward-facing spirit, a spirit of grim aggressiveness animates the majority of the thousands of business men from all parts of America now attending the annual convention of the National Electric Light Association.

A similar mental metamorphosis has occurred in the financial world. There defeatism too long reigned. Determination has been reborn.

B. C. Forbes

THE ELECTRIC industry has planned a unique co-operative advertising campaign to place more electric drudgery-saving appliances in homes. Prospects are pictured as most inspiring. Even during the drabbest days, sales have been pushed ahead remarkably satisfactorily. Therefore now that faith in the future is returning, the redoubled sales efforts are confidently counted upon to net large results.

THE ELECTRIC industry has never lacked ambitious leaders. Is it significant that three N. E. L. A. figures have been, thus far, absent from this week's gathering because they were receiving honorary degrees from different universities, Owen D. Young and Gerard Swope, of General Electric, and Andrew W. Robertson, of Westinghouse? Each has manifested sympathetic interest in wage earners—perhaps another significant fact.

TALKING OF AMBITION, the utility industry has had a plethora of aspiring Napoleons. They battled spectacularly for renown, for power, for dominance when leadership didn't call for abnormal courage.

How hath the mighty now fallen!

And what armies of investors have been slaughtered, decimated, annihilated!

At least twice I warned the utility giants at these annual assemblages, when they were launching billion-dollar combinations, billion-dollar holding companies and other breath-taking, grandiose schemes, that the public was not convinced there was anything in it for them. I urged that explanation and justification be vouchsafed the public—consumers, investors, voters. But these appeals fell mostly on deaf ears.

The reckoning has not been light. Indeed, a gloom has been cast over this gathering by the fate of the Insulls. Even though Sam Insull was not particularly popular and had antagonized many in the industry by his autocratic conduct, his pathetic dethroning is sincerely deplored.

He is not the only magnate whose prestige has suffered. Napoleons no longer bestride the industry. Certain operating men have waxed in stature while the financiers have waned and winced.

RECORD HAS it that it is an operating executive of unsullied record who is slated for the presidency of the N. E. L. A. This incident will give you a glimpse of his character, caliber, dependability.

A greatly perturbed New York banker, James Speyer, entered the White House on the forenoon of the last day of January, 1899. He explained to President McKinley that the historic agreement between the Central Pacific Railroad and the United States government for the settlement of the road's debts had been released here and in Europe for publication the following day, but that the necessary signature of Attorney General Griggs was unobtainable, as he was absent from Washington on a speechmaking tour.

President McKinley pressed a button. A young secretary entered.

"Get this to the Attorney General, wherever he is, and have him sign it today," commanded the President.

"Yes, sir," replied the young man.

"But," interjected the banker, "how can I be sure the Attorney General will have signed it before tomorrow morning?"

"Didn't you see me give it to Mr. Cortelyou?" asked the President, somewhat testily, as he dismissed the matter.

George B. Cortelyou, who served under three presidents and filled three cabinet offices before becoming president of Consolidated Gas of New York, was the young secretary. A wholesome type of citizen.

SHORT SQUEEZE IN AUBURN AID TO MARKET

Advance Helped by Tone In Bonds, Commodities; N. Y. Traction Issues Up

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP.)—A short squeeze in Auburn gave the stock market a much needed boost today, just as it was slipping back to the bear market lows of last week.

After a somewhat heavy tone at the opening, the list quickly met support, and a runup of about 10 points in Auburn was accompanied by numerous gains of 1 to 3 points elsewhere. The list turned dull after mid-day, however, and there were some slight recessions from the best levels. The advance in shares was undoubtedly helped by marked improvement which developed in United States government bonds, and by a better tone in some of the principal commodities.

The sorely depressed B-M-T issues recovered substantially. The preferred regained two-thirds of yesterday's 9-point drop, and the common pushed up 3. American Telephone recovered an early loss of a point and sold up more than 2 net. Miscellaneous issues getting up 2 to 3 included Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse Electric, Coca Cola, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, American Tobacco "B," Peoples Gas, Safeway and Macy. Some of these issues gave up as much as a point of their gains after midday. United States Steel failed to show much recuperative power. It rose a major fraction, then fell back.

The short squeeze in Auburn, famous for its market gyrations, was apparently in connection with its sharp reductions in the prices of its models, and its announcement of an aggressive bid for a larger share of the business in the lower-priced field. A considerable short position had apparently been built up in anticipation of an adverse market response to announcement of the price reduction, but the shorts found a very limited supply of stock available to cover their commitments. The B-M-T issues rallied on the statement of President Dahl that he anticipated no difficulty in arranging to meet the $13,500,000 note maturity on August 1, although he said plans were as yet uncompleted.

During the first three days of the week the market had lost most of its upswing of the last three days of the preceding week. The price average of 90 issues had reacted a little more than 5 points to 36.3, which was only 1.3 above the bear market low established at the middle of last week. Such a swift rally as that which ensued might in the normal course of events be followed by a reaction reducing the gains by about half, but this week's setback ran beyond the proportions of a normal technical reaction. A drop into new low ground would have been decidedly discouraging.

While the strength of United States government bonds seemed to indicate confidence in the ability of Congress to complete its economy and relief measures without important damage to the good work done with the taxation bill, brokerage quarters were inclined to the view that a hesitant, uncertain market would be about the best that could be expected until Congress completes its work and adjourns.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Southpaw Pitching Race. McKechnie Confident. Old Sox Hero Here. Glove Judge in Gallery. Ertle's Triple Verdict. Weissmuller Missed.

GROVE AND GOMEZ FIGHT FOR HONORS

IF THE PENNANT struggle in the American League, as signs are beginning to indicate eventually narrows down to a fight between the Yankees and the A's, a factor having a strong bearing on the decision may be the outcome of an individual race between southpaw pitching stars. One of the most interesting side features of the season is the rivalry between Bob Grove and Vernon Gomez for honors in victories and strikeouts. The youthful Yankee has become a formidable challenger for the league supremacy which Grove has been holding without dispute.

Lefty Grove

Each of the left-handers yesterday added another victory to his streak. Grove put over his eleventh win of the season and his tenth in succession, while Gomez registered his tenth success of the campaign and his seventh in a row. Gomez has suffered only one defeat, against three reverses for Grove. For the second time this year, Gomez yesterday struck out 13 men in a game, and in whiffs for the season he stretched his lead over Grove, his total being now 84 against 76 credited to the Mackian ace. Rarely, if ever, has one league boasted such a great pair of southpaws.

IN SUCH A close and open fight as the dizzy pace that is burning up the track in the National League, Bill McKechnie figures that every club in the circuit has a chance to win. He thinks the outfit with the greatest endurance will be the one to take the prize, and is confident that his Braves, ousted from the lead again yesterday by the Cubs, will be able to stand the gaff right up to the end.

"It's the best club I have managed since I signed a four-year contract with Boston," said Wilkinsburg Bill. "I hope to see it regain the lead in this home series against the West. If the Braves are in front on the Fourth of July it may be hard for any other club to displace them. It's anybody's race, but if the Braves win, the teams they will have to beat, I think, are the Giants and possibly the Dodgers."

BASEBALL SUCCESS DOESN'T always run in families. The records of the Warnekes this year show that while one pitching member has been a sensation in the majors, another, also a hurler, has been unable to hold a job in the minors.

Lonnie has developed into a star for the Cubs, and has won seven games while losing only three. But Albert, a brother, drew his release from Fort Smith in the Western Association, and is now pitching for the West Plains semi-pro club in the Ozark Mountain League.

ONE OF THE most famous early baseball figures of Pittsburgh and the National League will be in attendance when the Veterans' Association of the Northern Pacific Railway Company holds its convention in Minneapolis, June 23 and 24. He is Abner Dalrymple, half a century ago a star outfielder for Milwaukee, Cap Anson's Chicago White Stockings and the Pittsburgh Nationals. His plans to attend have just been announced in a letter to H. K. Cole, secretary of the Association. Dal, now a resident of Warren, Ill., retired on September 30, 1928, under pension rules as a conductor on the Northern Pacific Railway after 38 years of service.

Abner Dalrymple

DALRYMPLE WAS ONE of the greatest hitters of his time. Six times in his National League career he hit .300 or better, and for Milwaukee in 1878, that city's only season in the circuit, he led the National League in batting with an average of .356.

Dalrymple played for Pittsburgh in 1887 and 1888, this city's first two seasons in the National League. He was obtained from Chicago after 1886, along with Pitcher Jim McCormick. Illness kept Dal out of the local lineup much of the time, and after the 1888 season he was released, signing with Denver. He played left field here, and in 1888 had as a teammate in center field Billy Sunday, present evangelist.

ANOTHER OLD PLAYER to recall the baseball past to local fans is George Rohe, who, with his wife and family, is visiting relatives in Bellevue. Rohe became the first dark horse hero of the modern world series when he was sent to third base in an emergency for the White Sox against the Cubs in the title stakes of 1906, because George Davis was out of commission and Lee Tannehill had shifted to shortstop.

George was the main offensive factor in the 2-to-1 victory of the Sox in the first game. He knocked in one run with a triple and scored the other himself. Another timely triple helped to win the second victory, and Rohe kept up his strong stickwork throughout the series, making seven hits in 21 times at bat in the six games played, for an average of .333.

BOXING PROMOTERS OPERATING the Hollywood Legion Stadium tried an experiment that will not be repeated. On the occasion of the Swiderski-Morro bout they parked one of the judges in the gallery. The official drawing that post was Tom Kennedy, former heavyweight fighter and matchmaker. He was moaning when he handed in his slips. "I couldn't tell a thing about punches from up there," he said. "I could see them start, but didn't know whether they landed and hurt the man receiving them or were blocked by gloves or elbows." This may explain why gallery spectators and those at the ringside often disagree on bouts that are close and even on some that are not.

THOUGH THE HEAVYWEIGHT title fight between Dempsey and Carpentier was the most important refereed by Harry Ertle, who died this week, the most sensational was the McTigue-Stribling affair in Columbus, Ga., in 1924. After Ertle had called the bout a draw, attempts were made by part of the crowd to mob him in the ring.

The referee was given police protection to a hotel and had to leave the city secretly. According to some reports of the fight, Ertle gave three decisions that night—the first a draw, the second a Stribling win, and then a draw again. After Ertle got across the Georgia line he said his official decision was a draw.

FOLLOWING HIS FIGHT with Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey is going to take his family to Long Beach, Cal., and will be quartered there for the period of the Olympic Games. He wants to take in the big show from start to finish. George Schroer, a Long Beach recruiting officer, has leased a big house for the Sharkeys.

Schroer once was Sharkey's manager. As a partner, he had Phil Schlossberg, a former heavyweight champion of the navy. They discovered Sharkey in the navy 11 years ago and managed him from 1921 to 1924, when they sold his contract to Johnny Buckley.

Johnny Weissmuller

IT IS ADMITTED by the Olympic chiefs that the man who will be missed most by the United States in the swimming branch of the big games is Johnny Weissmuller, now in Pittsburgh. Johnny occupied a class of his own apart from the other male swimmers, just as Helene Madison is supreme among the women. He won the 100 and 400 meters in the 1924 Games and the 100 meters in 1928, besides being the star performer in the relay victories, and the Olympic record he set for the 100 in 1924 still stands. But his professional career in the movies bars him from this year's Games. Buster Crabbe may be depended on to take care of the middle distances, but there are no Weissmullers for the sprints.

GENE HAS 69, ARMOUR 70 IN SECOND ROUND

SANDWICH, Eng., June 9.—(AP.)—Gene Sarazen, long-hitting New York professional, tied the course record at Prince's with a 69 today to take the lead in the second round of the British Open golf championship with his 70-69-139.

Tommy Armour, defending champion, finished with a 70 and 145, just as Gene was starting out and his fellow Americans fine performance stimulated Sarazen to do his best.

Gene was out in 35 and home in 34 for a card five under par.

MAC SMITH SCORES 76

MacDonald Smith, Scottish-born American professional, scored a 76 for a 36-hole total of 147, eight strokes behind Sarazen.

Starting with a 7 on the first hole, Smith finished out the first nine in 39. He pulled himself together to come home in 37, one under par, but he could not overcome his poor start. His card:

Out ... 7 5 3 4 4 4 4 4 4—39
In ... 4 4 4 4 3 4 5 5 4—37—76

Charles Whitcombe, Ryder Cup captain in 1931, came in with a 73 for a 36-hole total of 144, to tie Archie Compston and W. H. Davies for third place behind Sarazen and Allis.

Sarazen had birdies at the second, fifth, twelfth, fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth holes and was over par only once, on the ninth hole. His card:

Out ... 4 4 3 4 5 4 5 3 3—35
In ... 4 4 4 4 5 3 3 4 5—36—69

CLOSE TO NEW RECORD

Sarazen failed to set a new record because he half smothered an approach shot to the home green, where he had an easy 4 in sight for a 68.

The ball carried into the crowd and down a steep bank near the clubhouse door. He chipped up the slope over short grass to within three yards of the cup and still had a chance for his 4, but his putt was a little off the line and he needed 5. He was well content, however, with that.

Armour, who had trouble with his putting all day yesterday when he used up 75 strokes on his first round, gave no indication of recovered form on the outgoing nine. He turned in 37, taking a 6 at the long eighth.

Coming home, however, he put on a spectacular streak of golf that included birdies at the tenth, twelfth and seventeenth holes and an eagle 3 at the long eighteenth. He took only 33 strokes on the homeward trip, which measures 3,590 yards. Armour's card:

Out ... 4 5 2 4 3 4 5 6 4—37
In ... 3 4 4 4 3 4 4 4 3—33—70—145

ALLISS IN WEAK FINISH

Alliss, who finished in a tie for third place with Sarazen in the 1931 open at Carnoustie, almost exactly duplicated his performance of yesterday when a shaky finish prevented him from carding a 69. Today he covered the first nine holes in 34 strokes and was three under fours at the fifteenth. But the last three holes again cost him plenty of strokes and the stocky Briton finished 5-4-5 for 37 on the homeward nine and a total count of 71.

Walter Pursey, Seattle pro, posted a 75 for a 36-hole total of 151, and Robert Sweency, American student at Oxford, scored a 74 for a total of 152. Henry Cotton, British pro, scored 72 for 146.

Douglas Grant, American living in London, recovered from a shaky 82 yesterday to score a 75, but his total of 157 probably was too high to let him in among the 60 low scorers and ties who will play the final 36 holes tomorrow.

A. R. Bradbeer, young Somerset professional who led the qualifying field with rounds of 70-71—141, needed 75 strokes today for a 36-hole total of 151, 12 strokes behind the leader.

John DeForest, British amateur champion, stroked himself right out of the tournament with an 84 for a 36-hole total of 166.

Other scores: T. A. Torrance, 148; Herbert Jolly, 149; George Duncan, 160; Marcel Philipon, 154; Abe Mitchell, 148; A. H. Padgham, 148; R. A. Whitcombe, 149; Syd Easterbrook, 149; Tom Dobson, 152; Arthur Havers, 145; Eric McRuvie, 152.

Golden Bear, Orange Crews at 'Keepsie

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 9.—(AP.)—California and Syracuse, two of the favored crews in the Intercollegiate Rowing Association regatta here June 20, arrived yesterday and had their initial workouts on the Hudson.

PRESIDENTS MEET TEST

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 9.—According to announcement at the Washington and Jefferson College athletic office, all members of the varsity grid squad came through spring examinations with flying colors. Only two freshmen were reported as deficient. They were William Brogden, Ellwood, Ind., and Edward Saule, Bridgeport, O., both halfbacks.

GUY JUNE WINNER

Guy June turned in the fastest time for the mile since 1925 in winning the free-for-all trot, feature event on the first regular program of the Schenley Matinee Club at the Schenley Oval yesterday. The winner ran the distance in 2.08½. Percy Cochato, Dr. Sutcliffe and Al Mack were the other winners.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE ONLY UNCHANGED BASEBALL RULE—Why were the lines between bases of a baseball diamond made 90 feet? The explanation takes baseball history back 87 years to 1845, when Alexander J. Cartwright, of New York, organized the first baseball club and laid out the first diamond. As it was not customary to measure in yards or feet to any extent in those days, Cartwright simply stepped off 30 paces—which proved to be 90 feet—as the distance between bases, and let it go at that. Little did he or his associates realize that the distance of 90 feet always would be satisfactory, and that the distance so carelessly stepped off would remain unchanged for 87 years. Any other distance than 90 feet would have ruined the game and baseball would be unheard of today. THE BILLION-YEAR-OLD TREE—In 1869, a disastrous flood raged in the vicinity of Gilboa, N. Y. The waters carried away some of the upper rock strata near the village, exposing what seemed like the realization of a paleobotanist's most extravagant dream. Deep in the bed rock was found imbedded an entire petrified forest. The forest had flourished in the Upper Devonian Era, lying back approximately 1,000,000,000 years. When these trees sank out of sight, the greater part of what now is the State of New York still was the bottom of a vast inland sea. The tree fossils were very ingeniously restored. The giant Lepidodendron stands today in the New York State Museum exactly as it had stood in the primeval forest approximately 9,995,000 centuries before Adam.

MISCUES COST BUCS SECOND GAME, 11-10

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—Although Manager George Gibson takes a certain amount of honest pride in his Pirate pitching staff, the big Canuck and his hurlers will not be sorry when the "choo-choo" hurries them away from the well-known Baker Bowl, where this afternoon they must take on the Phillies in the third game of what is now a 50-50 series.

The Freebooters were on the crying end of a typical Baker Bowl hippodrome yesterday afternoon. The Pittsburgh boys were guilty of four slipups, and a club generally has to be right up to snuff on every ball it can get its hands on if it expects to have any advantage in the short-fence park. In any event, Gibson's third-place entry lost some ground as they were defeated, 11-10.

SWETONIC READY

The third battle of the four-game set is likely to bring a tilt of right-handers. Steve Swetonic, who owns five victories in succession, is set to face the home club, which is expected to go to work behind Ed Holley.

The Buccos rang up 14 hits, including a three-run homer by Dave Barbee, as they vainly tried to make it two in a row over the Phillies yesterday. Glenn Spencer pitched the entire game for the Freebooters, and while the little fast-ball star was hardly up to his customary skill he was thrown into more than one jam by his unsteady supporting cast. The Quakers thought they had the game on ice after batting in the eighth; they scored four tallies in this inning to break a deadlock, but Barbee walloped a rocket into Broad street with two on in the first of the ninth and there was all kinds of confusion in the home dugout as Grace doubled to put the tying run on second. Pinch-hitter Gus Duras was retired on a fly ball in the crisis.

SUHR'S ERROR COSTLY

A muff by Suhr in the first round helped the Quakers to a big inning. The home boys rushed four runs over the pan. While the Buccos soon overtook the Shottonites the strain of it all began to tell on the Pittsburghers in the late innings. The seventh saw the Phillies forging ahead to a tie and they broke out in the eighth largely on account of more loose play in the Pittsburgh infield.

Starting with the second the visiting batters did their stuff cleverly through four rounds. They made a run in the second, a pair of them in the third, a cluster of three in the fourth and tapered off with one more marker in the fifth. Jim Elliott, a Pirate nemesis, was the victim of the Pittsburgh cannonading and Big Jim eventually made way for a pinch hitter who arrived on the scene in the sixth. Berly, Dudley and Benge all followed the powerful lefthander to the slab.

EIGHTH BEATS BUCS

The Pittsburgh infield unloaded a lot of poor play on Spencer in the eighth. Trailing by four runs as they came up for their last swings, the morale of the fighting Pirates was a fine thing to behold. As quickly as two of his mates got aboard, Barbee drove the ball out of the park. But the arrival of Benge on top of Grace's double brought the desired effect to the home team. Outfielder Lee also connected for a round-tripper.

Paul Waner retained his league batting leadership by hitting safely twice, one of his blows recording his thirtieth double of the season.

Such Quakers!

FILLY WINS RICH STAKE

NEWBURY, England, June 9.—(AP.)—Capt. Stanley Wilson's 4-year-old filly Anna today won the Newbury Summer Cup over a mile and a half by a length from Sir Mathew Wilson's Rock Star. Capt. Arnold Wills' Chorist was third, three-quarters of a length back.

SPENCER FACES BIG TEST

By JESS CARVER

Howard (One Shoe) Spencer, Geneva College's lanky Negro high jumper, rated with the elite of the nation's leapers, faces his toughest test in Chicago tomorrow and Saturday as he competes in the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field championships, said championships serving as a semi-final Olympic test.

Spencer, the district champion and record holder, has done 6 feet, 5⅜ inches in big league competition. He turned in this performance at the Penn Relays this year when he set a new carnival record. Judging from the way the boys about the country, who'll be competing in the N. C. A. A. event, have been doing, Geneva's ace will have to equal that leap if he wants to gain the Olympic finals. The high jumpers are getting so good and so snooty that they actually are sneering at any mark under 6 feet, 5 inches, which is further than most of us would care even to fall, much less leap.

One Shoe won his nickname by virtue (if it is a virtue) of the fact that when the going became the toughest, he removes one shoe.

Spencer's very best mark is 6 feet, 5⅝ inches, set in the Ohio Weslyan dual meet this spring.

The Tipoff

There isn't a football coach in the country, unless it might be Hunk Anderson, who would not have burst out in tears yesterday at Pitt's annual commencement exercises in the Stadium. As fine an array of grid stars as was graduated by any school in the country took away their sheepskins, and another cran of stars looked on in rather choked silence as they realized that while they still have some school work to finish, they are through as varsity performers.

Included among those getting degrees were two all-America stars, Joe Donchess, vintage of 1929, and Ralph Daugherty, star center of last year's Panther eleven. Others were Eddie Baker, captain in '30; Zola Alpert, Bob and Hart Morris, the latter a very greatly underrated guard; Walter Babic, Ray Anderson, Joe Tomkins, Ernie Lewis and Bill (Whitey) Wallechus.

Besides these men, Pitt loses two all-America tackles in Jim MacMurdo and Jess Quatse and Jimmy Clark, Mike Milligan and Rip Collins, all regulars and all stars last fall. There will be plenty weaker teams cavorting about the nation next fall than could be formed from the boys Pitt waved bye-bye to yesterday.

Schmeling Shaken Up in Workout

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 9.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling came closer to being knocked out in training yesterday than at any time in his career. He had taken on big Jerry Pavalee as a new sparring partner and Jerry was first man up.

They shuffled around for a few seconds and Max popped over two or three left hooks, a blow he has been petting these many days. One of them stung Jerry and he cocked a right and let it go. Max got it right behind the ear and the force of the punch toppled him forward and he almost went down.

He straightened up, grinned good naturedly, and saw to it that Big Jerry took no further liberties.

Champions Crowned In W. Va. Tourney

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 9 (AP.)—Champions were crowned here yesterday in the three divisions of the West Virginia junior and boys' tennis tournament.

In the final match for the junior singles title, Dils, of Parkersburg, defeated Wolfe, of Parkersburg, 6-2, 6-3, 6-5.

Dye and Whitman, of Elkins, captured the junior doubles championship by defeating Reed and McDonald, of Huntington, 6-0, 7-5, 7-5.

Two Charleston boys battled for the boys' singles title, with Swarts, the winner over Mendelloff, 6-2, 6-3.

U. S. CUP STARS FACE BRAZIL

NEW YORK, June 9.—(AP.)—Frank Shields, the tall, solemn faced New Yorker, and Wilmer Allison, sandy-haired Texan, were counted upon to give the United States a running start today in its Davis Cup tie with Brazil at Forest Hills.

Shields was down to meet Ricardo Pernambuco, bright star of the invading team, in the opening singles match. Allison was paired against Nelson Cruz in the second singles duel.

Pairings for tomorrow's doubles had not been announced, but it was felt certain that Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, Uncle Sam's regular combination, would face any pair the invaders set up. The order of Saturday's concluding singles tilts was to be reversed, with Allison playing Pernambuco and Shields facing Cruz.

CUBS BEAT DODGERS, REGAIN LEAD

GOMEZ, GROVE ADD TRIUMPHS IN AMERICAN

Associated Press.

The see-saw scrap for the National League leadership saw the Chicago Cubs bounce up again by defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7 to 5, in 14 innings while Boston was taking a 15-8 beating from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Charley Root, relief pitcher for the Cubs, held Brooklyn to one hit for the last six innings of their struggle and finally was rewarded in the fourteenth when Gabby Hartnett tripled and Bill Jurges doubled to drive across the winning runs.

REDS LOSE SEVENTH

The Cardinals pounded four Boston pitchers for 20 hits in scoring their fifth straight victory.

The Cincinnati bubble, one of the prettiest of the spring crop, appears to have explode in Manager Dan Howley's lap.

Seven straight defeats have removed the Reds from the first division and dropped them into seventh place.

Chick Hafey's illness, which has deprived the club of its cleanup hitter, and Pitcher Silas Johnson's inability to take his regular turn have contributed to the Reds' rapid tumble.

They committed four errors in the first four innings yesterday to lose their second to Bill Terry's revivified New York Giants, 9 to 2.

GOMEZ, GROVE WIN

The two eminent southpaws, Vernon Gomez and Bob Grove, continue to burn up the American League in their battle for individual pitching supremacy. Gomez won his tenth victory in 11 games as the Yankees took a close one from Detroit, 5 to 4. Grove scored his eleventh victory of the year and his tenth in succession in beating Cleveland, 3 to 1.

The day's most timely blow was delivered by Charley Berry, of the Chicago White Sox. Two were out in the ninth inning and the bases filled when he tripled to center and thereby defeated Washington, 3 to 2.

Goose Goslin delivered a home run, a triple and a single and drove in four runs as the St. Louis Browns crushed Boston, 11 to 4.

FAVORITES WIN AT MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 9.—(AP.) — Favorites encountered more opposition than they had bargained for in the National Clay Courts tennis championships yesterday and Berkeley Bell, of New York, seeded No. 3, was twice within a point of being beaten before he nosed out Jiro Yamagishi, Japanese entry from the University of Illinois, 1-6, 8-6, 7-5.

The sensational little foreigner had the New Yorker trailing 2-5 in the third and deciding set of their fourth-round match. Bell had to win five straight games to enter the quarter-finals along with Bryan Grant, Atlanta; Junior Coen, Kansas City; George Lott, Chicago; Cliff Sutter, New Orleans, and Lefty Bryan, Chattanooga, other seeded players, and Billy Hughes, of Memphis, and John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, a couple of dark horses.

Lott, seeded No. 1, was forced to extend himself to turn back Jim Halverstadt, Atlanta, 6-4, 8-7, 6-4.

LARRY JOHNSON AND CHAMPION MAXIE ROSENBLOOM MIXING IN MIDRING IN THE NINTH

WALKER BOXES DAVY GROVE

Paulie Walker, New York welterweight, who makes his local debut against Davy Grove, of the North Side, in the main bout at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight, in the third show of the week in the Pittsburgh area, is quite a fighter, judging from his record.

Back in 1930, when Paulie first began to attract attention, he bested Joe Dundee, former welterweight champion, in a 10-round bout in Philadelphia.

Last year, he did most of his campaigning in California, drawing with Young Corbett, conqueror of champions, in January, and beating him in a return bout in February. In March, he lost on a foul to Andy DiVodi, and, a week later, he beat the latter in 10 rounds. Upon his return to New York, he boxed a draw with Billy Townsend, and he's been stepping along ever since.

TEST FOR GROVE

Grove, who recently upset the dope by beating Jimmy Belmont at the Moose Temple, will have to show all of his improved form to come through against Walker unscathed.

Charley Baxter, of McKees Rocks, meets Jimmy Dean, Erie Negro lightweight, in the semi-final, and the Zivic brothers are in the preliminaries, Eddie meeting Charley Blozevich, of St. Michaels, in the second bout, and Fritzie being in the opener against Young Lowstetter, of McKeesport. The show goes on at 8:45 o'clock.

BENNY WINS AGAIN

NEW YORK, June 9.—(INS.)—Benny Leonard today counted four straight victories in a row in his campaign to come back. The former lightweight champion defeated Andy Ravinia on points in a 10-round mixup. Although Leonard battered his opponent throughout, Ravinia opened a cut over Benny's right eye in the first round and the eye was almost closed by the tenth.

Fight Results

At Greenlee Field—Maxie Rosenbloom defeated Larry Johnson, 10 rounds. Ray Miller defeated Johnny Datto, 10 rounds. Paul Pirrone knocked out Henry Goldberg, 2 rounds. Jimmy Belmont won referee's decision over Billy Holt, 10 rounds.

At New York—Benny Leonard defeated Andy Ravinia, 10 rounds. Tony Scarpati defeated Phil McGraw, 6 rounds. Jack Rosberg defeated Eddie Herbst, 6 rounds.

At San Francisco—Sammy Jones and Pedro Georgi drew, 8 rounds. Johnny Freeman knocked out Joey Coffman, 4 rounds. Mickey Evans knocked out Jackie Evans, 1 round. Roy Stice defeated Sleepy Clayton, 4 rounds.

At Reno—Jackey McFarland knocked out Denny Lenhart, 6 rounds.

MAXIE EASY WINNER IN NEW ARENA

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Two seasoned veterans, both of them sockers, stole the show as the new Greenlee Field boxing arena made its bow before a crowd of some 4,000 fans last night. It was a chilly evening, but the spectators stayed right on to the finish and the debut of the club in the fine new baseball park may be written down as a success.

Next week, they'll have Billy Petrolle and Tommy Grogan, who was introduced along with Eddie Shea last night, and, with warmer weather, they ought to improve on the opening turnout.

The net gate, with the state 5 per cent tax deducted, last night amounted to $5,371, which allowed the club to come off with a small profit after all the initial cost of getting ready to operate was taken out. There were 4,165 paid admissions.

The two show stealers were pitted against each other in the second bout. They were Ray Miller, of Chicago, and Johnny Datto, Cleveland Filipino. It was a slambang slugfest from start to finish, with Datto receiving the worst beating he has suffered in a local ring. He was floored for nine in the fifth round, and was lucky to escape a knockout then and was in a bad way several times thereafter, especially in the last round, when Miller eased off waiting for the final bell.

EASY FOR ROSENBLOOM

Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavyweight champion of the world, cuffed and slapped and hammered his way to a decisive victory over Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro, in the windup of the card of four 10-rounders, winning handily after two rounds of warming up in which Johnson held him even. Larry kept trying all of the time, but he was in there with the unorthodox Maxie, and they don't come any more cute than this big city slicker when he wants to fight. Maxie felt the chilly blasts so much that he had his bathrobe and a towel draped about himself to keep warm between rounds.

Billy Holt, Homewood Negro welterweight, outfought and outpunched Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, in every round but the first and ninth, which he lost, and the seventh, which was even, but the judges disagreed and Referee Red Robinson awarded the decision in the special bout put on after the windup to Belmont. Judge Frank Ferris voted for a draw and Judge Freddie Lux for Belmont.

PIRRONE SCORES KAYO

Henry Goldberg, New York middleweight, was in no shape and was belted out by Paul Pirrone early in the second round after the bell had saved him in the first round of the opening go.

Al Grayber refereed the main and first bouts and Robinson the other two.

FIGHT PRICES CUT

RENO, Nev., June 9.—(INS.)—Top prices for the Max Baer-King Levinsky heavyweight fight here June 4 will be $10, exactly 50 per cent less than tickets cost for the Baer-Carnera battle here last year, Jack Dempsey, promoter, announced today.

Between Rounds

A return bout between Tony Herrera and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe is in the making as a result of the general dissatisfaction with the decision awarded Herrera at the conclusion of their battle at the Meyers Bowl last Monday night.

Johnny Hasel, local lightweight, injured his right hand in his bout with Chick Rossano at Hickey Park last week and will be on the sidelines for a few weeks.

Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight champion, who defeated Larry Johnson here last night, has five bouts booked ahead, as follows: June 13, Tony Shucco, Springfield, Mass.; June 20, Sam Weiss, Allentown, Pa.; June 24, K. O. Christner, Akron; June 27, Bob Godwin, Washington, and July 14, a championship bout with Lou Scozza in Buffalo.

Tommy Grogan and Eddie Shea worked out at the Pittsburgh Lyceum yesterday and Grogan will continue training there for his go with Billy Petrolle at Greenlee Park next Wednesday night. Shea left last night for Akron, where he boxes Santiago Zorilla tomorrow night.

Ted Yarosz meets the conqueror of three welterweight champions when he faces Johnny Indreano in the main bout at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night, and figures to have every bit as interesting an evening as he could expect to have against Champion Jackie Fields. A win over Indreano will boost his stock immensely, and it already is in the sales.

The Strangler Lewis-Dick Shikat match to a finish in the new Madison Square Garden open-air arena in Long Island City tonight is for the benefit of Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's Milk Fund and will officially open the plant in which Max Schmeling will defend his world heavyweight ring title against dark shadowy one week from next Tuesday night.

Prince Saunders and Mickey Dunn have been signed for the eight-round semi-final to the Billy Petrolle-Tommy Grogan battle at Greenlee Park next Wednesday night.

GRADE SCHOOL MEET TODAY

Athletes from the seventh and eighth grades of the Pittsburgh elementary schools will clash in the annual track and field championship meet at Schenley High School's field this afternoon.

Teams representing 42 schools will compete, with the first event scheduled for 2 o'clock.

At Shady Side Academy this afternoon, the Shady Side baseball team will meet the Alumni nine in the annual commencement day game.

The senior field day will be observed at the Arnold School this morning with baseball, tennis and golf letters to be awarded for the past campaign. The following will receive monograms:

Baseball: Robert A. Fowler, captain; C. Homer Hair, Jr., Charles H. Bennett, Benjamin W. Day, John F. Griffith, Rich and G. Guthrie, Walter J. Guthrie, Wilson A. Hanna, Jr., William J. Langfitt, George G. Lindsay, D. Paul McCune, Jr., Edgar M. Marshall, Joseph T. Marshall, manager and George C. Watt, Jr.

Tennis: T. H. Faul, captain; Alfred C. Pollock, Jr., F. C. Thomas, Jr., and C. W. Winder, III.

Golf: Edwin Cross, captain; Henry R. Austin, James Davidson, James Farquhar, John G. Fox, Hugh Robert Kessinger and James L. Schneider.

McKeesport High School's golf team nosed out Peabody in a play-off Interscholastic Golf Conference match yesterday, 9½ to 8½, and will now meet Shady Side's team for the conference second place trophy. This match will be played tomorrow at Fox Chapel.

ACKNOWLEDGING THE TRUTH
—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

THE Gillette Safety Razor Company feels called upon to make a confession and a statement that are undoubtedly unique in the annals of American business. It is with deep regret and no little embarrassment that we do this in order to tell you frankly what actually happened when we introduced a new Gillette razor and blade.

Soon after this was done, we found that, although the great majority was pleased, some users complained quality was not up to standard.

We learned why. Our equipment had not been equal to the task of producing millions of blades at high speed without a certain variation in quality that affected a small portion of our output. As a result some blades that left the factory were not as good as you had a right to expect. Immediately we directed our principal effort toward the achievement of uniformity. Everything within our power was done to end variation. More than this—impossible as it seemed of accomplishment at the time—we set out to develop or find a better production process, having as a major requirement the elimination of varying quality.

We discovered and purchased for our exclusive use and at the cost of millions of dollars a manufacturing process that was amazingly superior to our own.

By this method, modern and automatic, millions of blades can be made at top speed without variation in quality.

We incorporated refinements of our own invention and installed the new machinery, throwing out all of our old equipment.

Now we announce today's Gillette blades, made by the new management. The usual superlatives have no place in this sincere statement of ours, so we will let the quality of the blades speak for itself. The green Gillette package remains unchanged, but the blades are new in every respect, quality, performance, and method of manufacture.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package. Cellophane wrapped.

You can try today's Gillette blades without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are superior, return the package and your dealer will refund your money. Our reputation depends upon the proof of these claims. Being absolutely certain of the quality of these Gillette blades, we do not hesitate to make this statement over our signature.

Seeking to bolster their lead in the City League over the second place Dormont nine, the Books face a test this evening in the J. L. Thomas entry of Bloomfield, in the City circuit's feature engagement at Olympic Park. In a second league tussle, Reliance Life meets the North Siders at Bellevue.

The Soho McKnights, according to Manager Pat Griffin, will use Moultrie Park as home territory in the future, and will play there this evening, facing the Duquesne Republicans in a West Penn League tilt. The Duquesne nine is the only team that has been able to stop the Homestead Aces to date.

WHITAKER WILKINSBURG

Four contests are on tap in the Greater Pittsburgh League this evening, two in the Suburban and two in the City section. In the Suburban, Whitaker takes on Wilkinsburg and Immaculate Heart engages the Marty Griffins. In the City section, the Luneys tackle Fineview and the Jena club plays Banksville.

The Homestead Grays are idle today, but tomorrow will test their new lineup against the Baltimore Black Sox in a night East-West League contest in Akron. Saturday and Sunday the same teams will resume their duel at Detroit.

In City League tussles last evening the Geislers defeated Homewood, 13 to 3, and Frank Ferris took over the North Siders, 7 to 2.

The Homestead Grays doubled the count on Clarion, winning 12 to 6. Homestead Aces passed the test offered by the Carrick Eagles in the West Penn League, winning 6 to 4. The Murs defeated the J. L. Thomas nine in a feature non-league fray, 7 to 5.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

CHICAGO, June 9.—The old game won't seem the same with John McGraw retired. Mac has been in baseball since those Baltimore Orioles were eggs, but I guess he finally threw his arm out this season waving Giant pitchers off the slab.

Nick Altrock

You know, McGraw's been suffering from sinus trouble, but what's been the matter with his team this year is minus trouble. And how!

It's a grand chance for Bill Terry, though, because if the Giants move in any direction it will have to be up. That is, unless they excavate the bottom of the league.

FOUR SURVIVE TEAM DUELS

By TOM BIRKS

Golf squads representing Highland, Oakmont, Stanton Heights and South Hills survived preliminary play yesterday for the Western Pennsylvania team championship. Highland, the defending champion, came through in fine style at the Field Club, defeating St. Clair and Fox Chapel. Oakmont set a fast pace at Fox Chapel to eliminate Greensburg, Longue Vue and Aleoma.

SOUTH HILLS WINS

At Oakmont, John Graham led his South Hills team to victory over Allegheny and Shannopin, while at the South Hills, Stanton Heights put out Indiana and the Pittsburgh Field club.

The teams all played Scotch foursomes in the morning rounds, while individual match play featured the afternoon dueling. The final round, featuring the four teams named should be a hectic affair. The date will be set by the W P G A in the near future.

Miss Barbara Warmcastle, young Field Club star, made her season debut at the Greensburg Country Club and literally burned up the course to lead in the Western Pennsylvania Women's Golf Association one-day tournament with a gross 89.

Mrs. D. A. Garber, of Stanton Heights, and Mrs. W. H. Duff II, of Oakmont, tied for low net honors with 91s. Mrs. J. W. Kinnear won the low net prize in the second division with an 85.

Miss Warmcastle will play with the Field Club team in the women's team matches at Oakmont tomorrow afternoon.

TOURNEY TOMORROW

Little competitive golf will be on display this afternoon, but tomorrow will find the Allegheny Country Club staging its thirty-eighth annual invitation tournament which will be concluded Saturday afternoon.

Much of interest will attend the playing of the women's team matches tomorrow with the Field Club, Allegheny and Oakmont teams swinging into action. The trio is closely bunched at the head of the list, Allegheny holding a slight advantage.

Eastern Net Play Gains Semi-Finals

PHILADELPHIA, June 9.—(AP.)—Alice Francis, young net star of Orange, N. J., yesterday advanced to the semi-final round in the women's Pennsylvania and Eastern States grass court tennis championships at the Merion Cricket Club. She eliminated Florence Leboutillier, Westbury, L. I., 10-8, 5-7, 6-4.

Miss Francis' opponent in the semi-final round today is the ninth ranking star in the United States, Virginia Hilleary, of Philadelphia, who upset Anne Page, of Merion, 6-4, 6-2.

In the other semi-final match, Mrs. John B. Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., defending champion and ranked fourth nationally, will face Anne Townsend, of Merion. The defending titlist eliminated Charlotte Miller, of Berkeley, Cal., former girl's national hard court champion, 6-0, 6-2.

CLEVELAND NET TOURNAMENT CARDED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Word from Henry C. Wick, Jr., president of the Cleveland Tennis and Racquet Club has it that the annual Ohio State net championships and United States Inter-City Doubles championship will be staged on the clay courts of the Forest City organization the week beginning Monday, June 27, immediately following the forty-fourth annual Western Pennsylvania event, winding up at the Stanton Heights Golf Club here.

The Buckeye affair has, for many years, drawn entrants from among Pittsburgh's racquet elite and it is possible that Drs. Billy McElroy and Dave O'Loughlin, premier dual squad of the Steel City district, will jaunt to the Lake Erie metropolis for the tourney.

The Inter-City Doubles will not get under way until Wednesday, June 29. Teams representing New York, Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Toronto, Ont., Youngstown, Erie, Buffalo, and various other cities will be entered.

The Cleveland tourney last season conflicted with the West Penn contesting with result that both sessions suffered. This time however, officials got together earlier on dates and all difficulty was avoided.

Meanwhile, the women's inter-club team action slated for today at the Allegheny Country Club has been postponed until Saturday afternoon, when the A. C. C. squad entertains Fox Chapel.

'TARZAN' STARS BEFORE MIKE

Johnny Weissmuller told how he got into the movies by climbing trees faster and better than a lot of other applicants for the Tarzan role and of his swimming career in an interesting interview over WCAE last night during the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph with Harry Keck, sports editor, in the role of interviewer.

The newest screen sensation who is completing a personal appearance at Loew's Penn Theater, spoke in an informal manner that made the feature one of the best the Seals have presented thus far.

Also on the program were Miss Lenore Kight, Homestead Library Olympic Games swimming hope, and her coach, Jack Scarry. Scarry will return as a guest next Wednesday night to go deeper into the subject of swimming and its stars. Tom Birks, singing sports scribe, Miss Marian Salmon, pianist, and Julius Levin and Bill Sutherland also participated.

Jockey Injured At Cleveland Track

CLEVELAND, June 9.—(AP.)—Jockey Willie Pryor was injured seriously late yesterday when he jumped from his mount, Bourbonite, which had broken its leg in a race at Bainbridge.

Pryor's scalp was severely cut as his head struck a post.

A few weeks ago, Jockey Charles Pegg, of Baltimore, was killed and two other riders injured as several horses piled up on the track.

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 9.—Graduation at Washington High School took nine of the most outstanding athletes of the school, five of whom played on the undefeated 1931 grid team. Robert Anderson, John McBurney, John Wilson, Harry McWreath and Capt. Sam Mawhinney are the gridders. Sherman Grable and Arthur Elliott are basketball regulars lost, and Stanley Moore, track man, and Dominick Frank, grid manager, were the others to go.

Crimson to Give Up 150-Lb. Eleven

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 9.—(AP.)—The Harvard Athletic Association today announced the abolishment of the 150-pound varsity football team, organized three years ago. Inability to schedule opponents and the plan to develop house teams were the reasons.

Yale abolished its 150-pound football team last month.

Hewitt Scores Ace in Team Matches

Earl E. Hewitt, Jr., of the Indiana Country Club, a former Penn State football player, yesterday gave the Western Pennsylvania team play matches on the South Hills course a real high spot when he holed out on his tee shot on the 140-yard No. 4 hole. Hewitt was playing in the afternoon individual competition and was matched with R. Munroe, of Stanton Heights and J. T. Lappan, of the Field Club, when he made the hole-in-one stroke. He used a mashie niblick.

Earl Hewitt, Sr., father of the Penn State grid player, also took part in the competition. The father was a member of State's baseball team when he was a student at the Nittany institution.

SUN-TELEGRAPH WANT-AD

MOVIE LOVERS CONTEST

CLUES

In the Want-Ad Pages of Today's Sun-Telegraph

You will find the titles of several popular motion picture plays. One of these titles is the correct answer for each of the Movie Lovers Contest Pictures from No. 1 to No. 4, herewith printed. Which are the correct titles? Find them and write the names below the contest pictures. Do not submit any pictures until the end of the contest.

Follow These Simple Rules —Read the Prize Lists

(1) The Movie Lovers contest will consist of a series of 60 cartoons to appear in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph—one each day for 60 consecutive publication days—starting Monday, June 6th. The contestants are to find the correct title for each picture from a list of motion picture titles that will be printed every day, scattered among the WANT ADS every day throughout the life of this contest. More lists of answers will not be accepted as an entry. The answers must be accompanied by the pictures you think said answers represent. Do not submit any pictures or answers until the entire set of 60 has been printed. Entrants are advised against an elaborate arrangement in submitting entries. Remember, the awards will be made for correctness of identity of the pictures, correct spelling of titles in your entry and neatness. Misspelled titles in your entry will be counted as total errors.

(2) The contest is open to everyone living in Pittsburgh or within 100 miles of Pittsburgh, with the exception of employes of the Sun-Telegraph and of WCAE, Incorporated, or any member of their families.

(3) As explained in the list of prizes herewith printed there are three divisions or classes. It is not necessary to subscribe or send in a subscription to the Sun-Telegraph to compete for one of the Class A prizes. The Class B prizes are open to entrants who send in one six-month subscription for the daily Sun-Telegraph. Class C is open to entrants who send in two six-month subscriptions to the daily Sun-Telegraph.

Shepard Waits for Lynn and Insists That She Go to Dinner With Him

CHAPTER II

"Your father works himself to death," Sarah announced, attacking her salad. "He and your mother should get away for a rest."

"They're talking about going to Florida this winter. Father hates to turn over his practice, though. The new young doctor is clever, he says, but father thinks people depend on him. And he's right," Lynn added proudly.

"Of course he's right," agreed Sarah, out of her long, loyal friendship with the Hardings. She was Lynn's mother. And it was she who had poured soothing [illegible] on the troubled family waters when young Lynn, after less than a year at her state university, had decided she had been enough expense to the family and must therefore come to New York to make her own fortune. It was Sarah who had met Lynn at the train, who had found this job for her and who had urged her to stay with her in the small apartment she shared with another woman.

But Lynn had refused.

"There isn't room," she said flatly, "and I'd only be putting you and Miss Frank out. Besides, I couldn't pay my share. Moreover, you'd think it your duty to look after me—and I don't want to be looked after, Sarah darling! Or rather, I want to look after myself and live on my own salary and fight my own battles. You'd make things too easy."

So Sarah, with many misgivings, had given in, and eventually, hearing of the business club, had inspected it with, it must be confessed, a slight sinking of the heart, and had sent Lynn there.

LYNN BUSINESSLIKE

During office hours their relations were pleasant, friendly and cooperative, but Lynn, determined never to overstep the bounds, out of her deep gratitude to her mother's friend, had acquired a businesslike formality toward the elder woman which amused and touched her. Once a week they lunched together, and Lynn came to the apartment for dinner now and then. But she never intruded upon Sarah.

"Mother," said Lynn, sighing, "still wants me to come home and teach or something. She's always asking if I haven't had enough of city life."

"And haven't you had enough?"

"Well, no. I'm just beginning!"

Of course you're just beginning, Sarah thought, looking at the glowing face, the steady, lambent gray eyes. She was imperceptibly grooming Lynn Harding for her own job some day—if she doesn't go off the deep end and marry some young idiot first and ruin her business future, thought Sarah, who, having survived one disastrous love affair 20 years before, was not given to dwelling with admiration on men, as husbands or lovers.

"By the way," said Lynn, a little too carelessly, "at breakfast this morning in the cafeteria I sat next to Mr. Shepard. You know, Mr. Norton's new secretary."

SHEPARD'S JOB

"You did? He seems a nice boy," Sarah admitted. "I understand that Mr. Norton is satisfied with him so far."

"How did he happen to get the job?"

I believe," said Sarah, "that he was studying engineering at Yale when his mother, his last surviving relative, died. What money she had was left in trust. Mr. Norton is an old friend of the family's."

Oh, I see—a direct legacy to the Seacoast Trust Company." Lynn's eyes danced. "But why didn't they let him go on with his engineering?"

I don't know," Sarah signaled the waiter and requested a menu. "Will you have a sweet, Lynn?" Two French pastries then, although I shouldn't. I'm getting fat. I don't know," she repeated, recalling herself to the topic of conversation, "I believe there wasn't enough to put him through, or that Mr. Norton thought he had better start in working. There is no surer way for a young man to learn the banking business generally than by becoming secretary to a banker, only so few do. I think that he—young Shepard—took a secretarial course before coming in with us."

"But he doesn't take dictation, does he?" asked Lynn, wide-eyed, unable to picture Tom Shepard making pothooks.

"No. Miss Mason does that. His job is to meet people and be tactful, I believe," Sarah told her, "and to keep track of Mr. Norton's appointments and carry confidential messages for him and all that sort of thing."

"General errand boy," murmured Lynn.

ADMIRER FROM HOME

The French pastry disposed of, Miss Dennet drank her tea and observed her companion.

"The Wilkins boy pestered you to return home, I imagine," she ventured.

"Oh, about as usual." Lynn flushed. "He always thinks that when he arrives in town full of the possibilities of the dental-equipment business I will fall on his neck from sheer admiration—and homesickness. He's a good lad," she added.

"Well, I don't know him, but I do know his mother," said Sarah firmly, "and I must say I'd hate to see you go back and be one Mrs. Dental Equipment Wilkins."

"Don't worry," Lynn laughed. "Marriage is the last thing that would interest me now, and you know it."

Presently they went back to work, stopping first on the main banking floor for Sarah to cash a personal check. Then they went into the lobby together. The express elevators flashed by, and Lynn watched them taking on and discharging their human freight.

If you waited by the elevators long enough you saw exciting people—the artists of the air being transported to the broadcasting studios in the tower. You saw Broadway actors and actresses, Metropolitan Opera singers, motion-picture stars and orchestra leaders.

"There goes Gloria Faye," whispered Lynn, clutching Sarah's arm. "She's on the air tonight. Perhaps she is going up to rehearse."

A SURPRISE

Gloria—Radio's Sweetheart—in a summer ermine coat and a little helmet of felt and fur, swept into the metal cage with her accompanist. Sighing, Lynn stepped into the local elevator.

But when she stepped out again that evening she perceived one Mr. Thomas Shepard, confidential secretary to the vice president, lounging by the doors, waiting, as was evident from his greeting, for her.

"Here you are," he remarked amiably. "Where would you like to eat?"

He had the audacious eyes of self-confidence. He wore assurance lightly, without offense. Lynn was distressed to find herself coloring, stammering, even.

"Why—why—"

"Where do we eat?" he inquired again, sternly.

"But—"

"But me no buts, why me no whys," he told her, and took her arm with the gesture of a man who knows his own mind. A girl hurrying past on her way home to cook supper for her husband—who was out of a job—glanced at them with cynical understanding and a little envy. Poor idiots! she thought, and went on her way; small, alert, red-headed, not much older than Lynn.

Synopsis

Lynn Harding, 22, and beautiful, is ambitious for a career in the Seacoast Bank and Trust Company. She lives at a girl's club but its institutional atmosphere annoys her. Breakfasting one morning, she meets Tom Shepard, confidential secretary to the vice president of the trust department. She lunches with her friend and chief, Sarah Dennet.

Now Go On

"Here you are," he remarked amiably. "Where would you like to eat?"

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Junior and Roderick Go 'Out of Bounds'

So gingerly did Junior and Roderick descend the stairs that they reached the living room without their grandmother hearing them as we had feared she might do. I was sure that she was in ignorance of their descent from the second floor because I knew if she had heard them she would be out protesting their leaving bounds.

If I could get them started upon the adventurous errand so dear to their boyish hearts before my mother-in-law should discover their absence, all would be well, for I had braced myself to withstand her barrage of searching questions and scathing objections concerning it.

TAKE BOYS ALONG

"Don't talk when we get down there," I adjured them in a whisper. "Just listen and obey orders."

Their eyes were bright with joyous excitement as they looked up at me and nodded with complete understanding of my plan.

"Well, kids," Harry Underwood spoke with gruff friendliness, "all ready to do a fancy bit of scouting?"

"You bet," they responded together, and Junior added, "I s'pose you want us to get that thing off the fence."

"You're going along with us," Mr. Underwood said, "that's one sure thing, and we hope that you can pull the white thing off the fence. You're entitled to the job, because you saw it first, but we'll have to find out whether it's safe for you to get near it or not.

Hank and Bill and I are going ahead. I think I'd better go with them," he said aside to Dicky. "And your father will take you, Junior and Roderick, but there's one thing sure. Nobody shall touch it until you two get up there. Come on, boys! Let's be going!"

READY FOR EMERGENCY

Bill and Hank ranged themselves on either side of him and the three went out of the door, while Junior and Roderick flung themselves ecstatically upon Dicky.

"Gee!" they murmured rapturously, and Roderick added with a frenzy of impatience in his voice, "How long before we start, Uncle Dicky?"

"About one minute," Dicky answered, smiling down at him. "I must get something first, and then I'll be with you. Stay here until I get back."

I know what he's gone for," Junior said. "His other pistol."

"Yeah. That's the dope!" Roderick echoed with a swagger, which brought a smile to my lips even through my panic.

The next minute Dicky was back in the room again and put his hand on his coat over his belt in a significant way, as he shooed the boys out of the door before him.

"The world's safe for democracy and all emergencies," he said with a significant grin. Then something he saw in my face led him to rush back and whisper a reassuring message into my ear.

"They shan't go near the thing unless I'm sure it's harmless," he said.

It was a reassurance that I needed as an armor during the next few minutes, for the boys and Dicky were hardly out of sight before I heard my mother-in-law's voice at the top of the stairs.

GRANDMOTHER ANGERED

"Richard, Second' Roderick!" she called. "Answer me this minute." And then, after an ensuing silence, came a summons which I expected, yet dreaded to hear.

"Margaret! Margaret! Where are you? Do you know where the boys are?"

"Yes, mother," I said sweetly. "They went out with Dicky."

"Went out with Richard!" she ejaculated. "What do you mean? I told them they were not to go beyond bounds. Come up here this minute, please, and explain yourself."

I mounted the stairs reluctantly, turning over the old familiar problem of how to placate my mother-in-law's offended dignity. But I was given no chance for even the biblical "soft answer" that "turneth away wrath." I had no sooner reached the top of the stairs than, stately and wrathful, she turned a barrage of explosives upon me.

"If Richard has taken leave of his senses, is that any reason why you should imitate him?" she demanded. "Come here with me this minute"—she took my arm and hurried me to the balcony—"and see if you can make them hear you. I've called and called to them to come back, but my voice isn't strong enough, or else they're pretending not to hear me."

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

The members of the Plaza Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, at their meeting Saturday, had the honor and pleasure of presenting to "Baby" Eleanor Vlaha, an honorary membership.

"Baby" Eleanor, who has just returned from making her debut in the "talkies" out in Hollywood, assisted Miss Dolly Mente, dancing instructor, with the inauguration of the Plaza dancing class. Thirty-eight boys and girls registered with Joseph Morin, Jr., for dancing instruction and were drilled in the primary two "tap" step.

After the dancing class, "Baby" Eleanor entertained the members with songs, dances and stories about the movies.

Elvin Neil, the "Official Reporter" of the Schenley Chapter, reports he attended a party at the home of Edward Flicks last Friday night. This was in the nature of a "passing" party as all the youngsters that attended had passed their final examinations at school. Those present were: Grace Rapp, June Hughes, Edgar Moore, Jeanett May, Bert Goldman, Evelyn Logsten, Dolores Logsten, Leana Bradley, James Webb, Sam Ali and Mary Aleworth.

TO READ COMICS

Remember, boys and girls, that tonight at 6 p. m., over radio station WCAE, the daily Sun-Telegraph comics will be read for you by "Uncle Bob and Betty," the two lovable characters who are honorary members of your club. Be sure to listen and laugh with them tonight at 6 o'clock.

If you are not a member of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, send your name and address, name of your parents, date and year of your birth, school you attend, to the Secretary, Junior Komic Club, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and a membership card and button will be mailed you.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

Belmar: Henry Levine, Armanda Tat, Vincent Butters, Mary Magnella.

Cameraphone: Alice Boring, Tom Salvacci.

Etna-Harris: Dorothy Smith, Myrtle McNally, May Holden, Betty Edmonds, John Klingensmith, Anna Zabeth.

Kenyon: Joseph Arnold, Florence Hanley.

Manor: Claude Wetmore.

Insignia

Despise no mortal for the marks of toil
Which, as the slow years pass, have marred his frame.
The ploughman bent from turning stubborn soil,
The dim-eyed painter wooing hardy fame,
The kitchen drudge, with large work-roughened hands,
The mother with her weary anxious air,
The weaver's body twisted as he stands,
The narrow-chested scholar in his chair,
All men should wear the scars of life with pride,
As silent witnesses of patient strength
That tell a tale of ease and rest denied,
Of dreams long dreamed and conflicts won at length.
These signs of tasks that filled their hours on earth
Are the insignia which prove men's worth.

If you think yellow, stained, unsightly-looking teeth are natural, start using Kolynos—a half-inch on a dry brush twice daily. In 3 days you'll see your mistake. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter!

Kolynos—unlike any preparation you've ever used—contains two important ingredients that clean and whiten teeth remarkably. One—the finest cleansing agent known—erases stain and tartar, foams into every tiny fissure and washes away decay-causing debris. While the other ingredient kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles and helps to make teeth absolutely clean.

Thus Kolynos gently cleans teeth right down to the natural white enamel and soon makes them more attractive than ever. It refreshes the mouth and stimulates the gums. Buy a tube of Kolynos today.

KOLYNOS DENTAL CREAM

Don't let them count you out!

If you require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S. It is a tonic with rare qualities . . . palatable and easily assimilated because it is liquid. It stimulates the secretions of the stomach . . . aids digestion . . . restores the appetite . . . regenerates hemoglobin—builds up the red-blood-cells—and gives greater resistance against infection and disease.

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

Gain new strength . . . feel fine!

Why not start on the road to better health and more happiness today? Get S.S.S. from any drug store, in two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks treatment.

Aid for the Hospitals

Relief for the Indigent Sick Is One of the Imperative Reasons for Another Special Session

In her open letter to the public Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, president of the Pittsburgh Hospital Conference, gave convincing reasons why the 25 per cent cut in the Commonwealth's appropriations to state aided hospitals should be restored.

Thirty hospitals of the local group have given 628,522 days of free service during the last year, at a cost of $2,033,730; and the state's entire appropriation to these institutions amounted to only $772,860. Thus they faced a heavy deficit even before the appropriation was cut.

The appropriation was reduced because the Talbot appropriation for the unemployed was made a prior obligation and because the state's revenues have fallen off.

To give the hospitals their full appropriation legislative action will be necessary. We have, then, in their plight, another imperative reason for a special session of the Legislature.

Miss Turnbull declares that if the state does not come to their aid some of the smaller hospitals will have to close. This must be prevented, even if it becomes necessary to increase state taxes.

The larger hospitals cannot stand an additional burden of charity work, and the indigent sick must not be allowed to go without hospital service.

City Has Good Credit

Issue of $300,000 of Bonds Commands Large Premiums From All Bidders.

Pittsburgh stands high among the leading municipalities where its credit rating is concerned. The city has just sold an issue of $300,000 of 4¾ per cent bonds to mature serially in one to 15 years. Nine banking organizations submitted bids. Among the bidders were institutions located in New York and Chicago as well as in Pittsburgh. Every one of the bidders offered a premium in excess of the face value of the bonds.

The successful bidder, a Chicago bank, paid a premium of $6,120. The smallest premium offered was $751.

The fact that there was such keen competition for a comparatively small offering of bonds under the present trying conditions speaks well for the state of our municipal finances. During the past year nearly all cities and towns have been faced with serious problems due to difficulties in collecting taxes. Chicago's troubles are well known but conditions in the Windy City are paralleled in many smaller communities which do not so readily command national publicity.

The eager market for Pittsburgh's bonds indicates that the city will have no difficulty in carrying out any conservative plans for public improvements which will aid employment conditions.

Township Tax Relief

The State Can Also Reduce the City Tax Burden by Taking Over Poor Relief Work.

Gov. Pinchot points with satisfaction to the reduction of township taxes that has resulted from the state's taking over for improvement 20,000 miles of township roads.

The Governor reports that 614 of Pennsylvania's 1,510 second-class townships have reduced road taxes by $1,563,000 this year, and 30 of the 62 first-class townships have reduced taxes $472,600. If the other townships reduce in the same proportion the total saving in township taxes will be $3,167,000.

This easing of the tax burden of property owners in the townships suggests, of course, that something of the same sort should be done for the city dwellers. The commonwealth could relieve city property owners from an onerous real estate tax by taking over poor relief work, and it is to be hoped the proposed special session of the Legislature will do something of the sort.

The state has tax resources not open to the city.

Our Mineral Resources

Pennsylvania Has Vast Supplies Which Will Be Useful When Sources Now Drawn Upon Fail

C. L. Perkins, of the School of Mineral Industries at Pennsylvania State College, is studying Allegheny County's stone resources. He finds we have deposits of sandstone which could be used to advantage in the construction of small buildings and walls.

It may be better commercial policy at this time to draw upon quarries in more distant places for stone for construction purposes. But it is a satisfaction to know that our needs can be supplied from local sources if the necessity should arise.

The Greater Pennsylvania Council, under whose auspices Mr. Perkins is making his investigation, has undertaken a worth while task in surveying the state's mineral resources.

Pennsylvania has vast mineral supplies which, although not much used now, will serve in good stead when the sources now drawn upon are exhausted. Iron ore is an example.

It is a good idea to take stock of these resources.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 9.—Few thrilling to the Follies 20 years ago would recognize the crisp new type of musical revue now all the go. Such extravaganzas today offer the thread of a plot, satirizing the foremost topics of the day—the depression, politics and the collapse of investments.

The opening scene in one is at the Automat with the ex-rich spiggoting for coffee and slot sandwiches and in another the curtain rises on the White House with a Vice President trying to get away from his hopeless isolation. In each is a straining for acid ridicule.

In the clutch of the stage's newer sophistication, beautious maids no longer melt into beautiful scenes by the lift of successive scrims and vice versa. In fact there is a studied contempt for ancient formulas. So much so a replica of a former stage pageant is revealed.

It is done without mockery. There is the iridescent spread of costumes against a background of dripping rhinestones. Graceful ladies peacock in their gaudy plumage. Yet so much has the revue changed since the old Midnight Frolic, the audience is convulsed with laughter.

The change of tempo was first introduced by Charlot's revue from England. American producers interpolated it with local notions, the entire effect being a glorification of the wise-crack. One producer awaiting the sheriff yanked himself out of oblivion by exploiting two such revues this season.

My sympathies were tweaked yesterday by a young husband, in durance vile, and his anguished bride. An adventure in job hunting ended in failure. Broke and bewildered, they tried to return home, but were nabbed at the station on a warrant for failing to pay a $42 hotel bill. Nor was my pity lessened in a cafe that evening by the sight of the chief figure in a bank swindle enjoying his freedom and a bright blonde.

* * *

Before entering this cafe, attention was attracted to a pair of whispering romancers. She held to his coat lapel in tremulous adoration and presently with a gallant bow he left her, disappearing around the corner. They had distinct Mayfair manner. And somehow I was embarrassed when, in waiter's garb, he served the coffee.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Now and then you stop and look back through the years.

You remember the things you've done, the things you haven't done—

Not so good!

"How I wish I had it to do all over again," you sigh. "I'd certainly make a different record. If I could only make a fresh start, knowing all I do now!"

Well, why don't you? You can!

You don't have to be born again to make a fresh start.

EVERY NEW MINUTE IS A NEW CHANCE. EVERY NEW DEED IS A FRESH START.

If you really want to "begin all over again," now's your opportunity! Life's before you, just as it always was, and the future will be what you make it.

"But I can't shake the past," you say.

No, you can't shake the past; but what of it?

Everybody has a past, and nobody's past is all it might have been. Even a baby's past is frequently no prize ribbon. Ever stop to think that? Ever realize that you had a past even when you were born? You did—a past accumulated by thousands of stupid, silly, cussed ancestors, all of whom had contributed his bit toward the making of you.

Every bone in your body, every drop of blood in your veins, carried the mark of that "past." Each dawning thought was molded and colored by all the thoughts that had passed through those other skulls, long since dead.

YOU ARRIVED ON EARTH WITH A MILLION YEARS OF PAST! BUT THAT FACT DIDN'T CRAMP YOUR STYLE. Instead, you used that past. You drew from it, unconsciously, the strength that made you what you are today. You went on living where they had left off.

THEN, WHY NOT DO THE SAME THING NOW?

Why not put your last 20 years of life to use, as you've put your last 200 years to use?

Full of blunders? Of course they were. So were all those pre-natal years that resulted in your birth. But you can learn as much from a failure as from a success, perhaps more.

SO, WHY NOT PUT YOUR PAST TO WORK?

If you can make a fresh start after 200 or 2,000 years of human life, why can't you after 20 years? The answer is—YOU CAN!

You can, no matter what that past has been. Maybe it has been pretty bad. Maybe you've wasted and wallowed, cheated and lied, made a fool of yourself.

All right; suppose you have? It has been done before. Men as proud as you are, stranger, have gone to hell AND FOUND THEIR WAY BACK.

YOUR PAST CAN'T BIND YOU UNLESS YOU WANT TO BE BOUND.

But there's the rub. Though you yelp about your past, though you blame it for all your troubles, are you really willing to be rid of it—

OR ARE YOU HANGING ON TO IT AS A HANDY ALIBI FOR ALL YOUR FAILURES IN THE PRESENT?

MANY A MAN'S "REMORSE" FOR THE DAYS GONE BY IS JUST A GOOD EXCUSE FOR NOT GETTING BUSY IN THE DAYS THAT HAVE COME!

If you really want a fresh start—

If you really want to begin all over again—

You can have it; you can do it—

RIGHT NOW!

A Dark Horse, and the Vice-Presidency

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Democratic politicians are curious about Illinois. Just now she has two Presidential possibilities in the field, and they would like to know which of the two will get the ultimate support, if either. The country is familiar with the personality and cleverness of Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

The other Illinois possibility is not so generally known to the rank and file of the party. There are men who assume that to consider anyone for the Presidency who has not been prominently identified with public life as an office holder is an absurdity; the absurdity is in the idea. It depends entirely upon the views and character of the man.

In recent weeks we have received many circulars reproducing editorials on this darkest of the dark horses, together with quotations from his talks. The editorials are complimentary; the views are sound. The man himself is interesting.

Saved City from Dire Disaster

Four years ago I met this man, Melvin A. Traylor, at a luncheon in Chicago, and in the afternoon we were taken into the great bank he directs as president without any pre-arrangement. The banker came out of his office personally to conduct us through the building. Thus he is a banker who is friendly, human, helpful, democratic.

All this is evident in his appearance. Not a tall man, slender, with a lean strong face, and keen cordial eyes, he has few of the mannerisms of the big banker—and yet he is the outstanding banker of the second biggest city in the land. Not so long ago he made this city his everlasting debtor, in his capacity of banker, literally by saving it from dire disaster.

No one in that community enjoys its confidence and admiration to a greater degree. He has ideas; these ideas, or such as we have heard, almost invariably are sound; and he has courage. Better still, he has vision. Not all of his speeches before bankers' organizations are popular with his audiences. He saw the effect of slovenly banking and speculation and warned against them before the crash.

* * *

Traylor Is Different

He was a lawyer, and a prosecuting attorney, before he became a banker in a small town in Texas. He became a banker because it was the easiest way for him to save the bank. He saved the bank, and made it a popular and successful institution. Because it was in the cattle country, he had close dealings with the cattlemen, and his fame among these spread far beyond Texas to the western plains.

One of the high officials of the Armour company in Chicago, naturally having relations with the cattlemen, heard of him through this channel. He concluded it would be advantageous to have this Texan associated with the Armour people; and soon he was the head of the Armour bank. The qualities that made him that most amazing of all things, a popular small town banker, continued with him in his more important position. He retains the old-fashioned notion that one of the functions of a banker is to advise the patrons of his institution—and to give them sound and honest advice.

Just now bankers are not popular in America; but Traylor is different. Even so it will be a difficult task to convince the average man, who does not know him, that he is different.

* * *

Type of Man Who Would Make a Good Leader

The other day I was talking with the man I consider the foremost intellect in the Republican party, though he holds no political office and never has. He was discussing the coming Democratic convention and the possibilities there.

"The other day," he said, "I was in Chicago and sat beside a man at dinner who made a great impression on me because of the soundness of his views and his unusual grasp of the situation in the country today. His name is Traylor and he is a banker. He impressed me as the type of man who might make a good leader in times like these."

But this man had known nothing about Traylor before. Had he not gone to Chicago he would know very little about him today. This illustrates the difficulty of interesting the average man in a presidential possibility to whom he is unknown, with whom he has had no contacts.

* * *

All This Has Changed

In the old days the great advantage in nominating men for President who had been prominent in high public station was that the voters were not invited to take a pig in a poke. There seldom was any doubt as to where the man stood on each and every possible issue then before the public. He had voted on them, and had spoken on them. He could be catalogued. Thus people were for or against him because of his views. It was possible even for delegates to vote intelligently.

But all this has changed. It is now considered good strategy for a candidate to conceal his views and to make a virtue of the concealment. Thus he can hope for the support of both sides on a controversial subject. There have been exceptions to this new rule; there are exceptions in this pre-convention fight.

But, even so, there has been too much concealment and hedging by the majority of the candidates, and by no one more than by Mr. Hoover, who has no real opposition and might, in consequence, be expected to have courage.

It is not fair to the party nor to the country for aspirants to national leadership in days like these to assume a mysterious attitude toward the problems on the solution of which so much depends.

* * *

The Butt of the Paragraphists

As usual, in latter days, we are hearing scarcely any serious discussions of the Vice-Presidential nominations. In the earlier days it was thought that only men of Presidential caliber should be named—because of the possibility of their elevation to the supreme office through the death of the President.

The second place was not beneath the dignity of John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, Aaron Burr, Martin Van Buren, Elbridge Gerry, John C. Calhoun. But in recent years there has been a disposition to treat the Vice-Presidency with scant respect. He is the butt of the paragraphists. We have the climax of the buffoonery over this high office in the musical comedy satire, "Of Thee I Sing." The late Thomas R. Marshall rendered no real service by poking fun at the office during the eight years he held it.

Important because of certain possibilities at all times, it is more important now than ever before. We can ill afford in these times to have a man elevated to the Presidency through death who is utterly incompetent for the higher task.

Both parties will be doing no more than their duty this year in insisting on the nomination for the second place only of those competent to render service satisfactorily in the first place.

* * *

Often Nominated to Balance a Ticket

The difficulty about these nominations for the second place is that nine times out of ten the man himself is not even seriously considered. Sometimes he is nominated to balance a ticket geographically; sometimes to satisfy a faction that has been disappointed in the presidential nomination, and we are afraid that frequently they are nominated as a result of plain vulgar barter.

A presidential candidate needs the delegation from a certain state to effect his nomination, and he, or his agents, with his consent, enters into a bargain with the delegation with the proffer of the second place to some favorite son. This really is a form of bribery. And yet the practice has come to be recognized as legitimate.

It will be some satisfaction to the country, none too confident over the future at best, if both parties make a point of nominating for the second position on the ticket a man in whose wisdom and experience it has such confidence that it would not be thrown into a panic by his possible elevation to the presidency.
